A group of happy women, busy with the affairs of the secret orders with which they were affiliated, were in a noment brought face to face with death. Sixty seconds later seven of them lay burned and bleeding on the payement, to which they had drepped, thirty feet below, and the others were rescued after they had been more or less severely injured in their desperate dash down the single pair of stairs that led to safety.

The blaze started just after 3 o'clock from a gasoline-stove explosion in a room in the rear of the third floor of the building and next to the elevator shaft. It was not discovered until it had spread to the adjoining apart-ments and the entire floor was filled with smoke and flame. About twenty nembers of the women's lodge of Maccabees were attending a committee meeting in the waiting-room in the front of the building on the same floor They were unconscious of danger until a janitor threw open the door and told them to get out before the flames cut them off. The warning came too late. The fire swept through the door and down the single stairway. Those nearest the door fied through the blinding smoke and reached the street with hands and face burned and blistered. The rest faced a solid wall of flames. There was a fire escape at the south front of the building, but not one of them seems to have thought of it. They rushed panic-stricken to the winlows, through which the smoke was already pouring in suffocating volimes. The fire was scarcely a foot behind them. It caught their clothing and scorched their faces with in-

In another instant the spectators attracted by the clouds of smoke, were horrified to see one after another spring from the open windows and fall heavily to the pavement. Not one arose. They lay in an inert and ap-parently lifeless heap until carried into the office of a physician, across the street. Most of them were bleed-ceed $50,000. The loss on the building is less than half that sum, and aside from that the heaviest losers are the proprietors of the Boston store, who had a large surplus stock in the base-ment of the block. The loss of the various secret societies that occupy the halls on the second and third floor is largely by water and smoke, and is difficult to estimate. The building is insured up to the 80-per-cent. clause, and most of the other losses are largely covered by insurance.

THREE MORE BODIES.

Fifteen Recovered So Far-Injured at Hospitals All Recovering.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, March 21.—Three bodies were recovered from the ruins of the Windsor Hotel today. They were badly charred and great difficulty is being experienced in the identification. There are now five bodies at the morgue, each tagged with a number, which, with the known dead, brings the list to fifteen. The list of missing is still very large, numbering forty-eight persons. The injured at hospi-tals are all recovering. Although the work of clearing away the debris is progressing rapidly as possible it seemed tonight, when the shift of 400 men was made, that but a small part of the ruins had been removed.

All during the night, articles of more or less value were brought to th face, and turned over to the policemen were standing about to receive and take them to the station-house to await identification. All of the most valuable of the articles are turned over officials. to the coroner's

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] NEW YORK, March 21 .- The third body taken out of the ruins of the Hotel Windsor was recovered early today It was very badly mangled. It is officially described as the man about 60 years of age, small of man about of years of age, shall of stature, arms and limbs missing, all hair burned off, second lower back tooth, right side, filled with gold; back tooth, lower left side, gold filled; part of black silk dress, beaded trimmings and with white lace border, white shirt water water and state of the size. and with white lace border, white shirt waist, marked 38, apparently the size; band of silk dress waist marked "Dou 221 Rue de Par," stamped in gold on the belt. The rest of the mark evidently indicating the name of the maker, was burned off.

A hundred men worked all night on the ruins. In many places the débris was too hot to permit of work. A number of pieces of bodies were found during the night, bones cherred and broken and separated from one another, with small pieces of burned flesh on them.

ing from severe cuts and bruises, and all were burned until their torn and blackened skin hung in shreds.

In a few minutes all except Mrs. Taylor recovered consciousness, and physicians and nurses, hastily summoned, did all that was possible to relieve their sufferings. As fast as hasty dressings could be applied, the victims were taken to the Clarkson Hospital by the ambulances. The body of Mrs. Taylor was, 'aken to the morgue, and others, whose injuries were less severe, were treated at a neighboring drug store and at the offices of downtown physicians.

Aside from the fatalities and the injuries to persons, the fire was not a serious one. Few of the losers are able to place an exact estimate on their losses, but the total will not ex-differ as to whether it is the body of a man or a weman, but it was thought to be the latter. Nothing was found near the trunk by which it might be identified.

The remains of another body were found on the Fifth-avenue side of the ruins. It consisted of a mass of charred intestines. Besides this mass was a thigh bone, from which all the flesh had been burned. Near this was another bone, but it could not be told the fire. The work of getting into the ruins is progressing rapidly today. The men have got twelve feet below the surface in some places. It is feared they cannot be told the fire, were reported to day to be rapidly improving, and will be able to be out in a day or two from Bellevue Hospital, where they were taken on the day of the fire.

He said he had thought the body of the woman found early this morning might be that of his sister, and he asked for the body. It was at the morgue. When he heard the description of the teeth found in the lower jaw of the woman dug out this morning he said he was inclined to doubt if the body was that of his sister, as her teeth were irregular and not complete.

John Sherman not Dead, as Reported.

Premature Announcement Made by State Department.

Ex-Secretary is not Only Alive, but Improving.

ser Chicago Next Friday-Will Then Be Brought Home-The Family Notified.

IBY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 21.-[Exclusive Dispatch.] John Sherman was formally and officially dead for several hours in the national Capitol today. That was because Secretary of State Hay, having confidence in press dis-patches, did not wait for confirmation through official channels. The news of Sherman's alleged death reached Wash-ington first by means of an Associated Press builetin which-simply quoted a special dispatch to a New York even-ing newspaper. When the special was dignified by being carried by the press association, it was accepted at its face value by the Secretary of State.

At 3:45 o'clock this afternoon, Secretary Hay and Mrs. Hay called at the Sherman house upon a visit of condo-lence. They did not see Mrs. Sherman, but left their cards, penciling on them "with deep regrets." At 5 o'clock Sec-retary Hay issued a circular letter to diplomats in Washington begging: "It is with deep regret that I announce the death of John Sherman, formerly Secretary of State," etc. Undoubtedly it is the first time in the history of this or any other nation that the Premier of a government has announced officially the death of a former, but still living Premier. Fortunately, Mrs. Sherman was not told of the supposed death of her hus-band when the first message came. She is resting easy tonight, therefore, as yet without knowledge even of his sickness. When Mrs. Sherman's comsickness. When Mrs. Sherman's com-panion. Mrs. McCafum, was told by Former Private Secretary Babcock this afternoon that Sherman was dead, she decided not to communicate the sad news to the invalid for a day or two, and then to break it gently and by de-grees. Every precaution was taken, grees. Every precaution was taken, therefore, to prevent any suspicion arising in Mrs. Sherman's mind. A policeman has been stationed at the door of the Sherman residence to prevent callers from ringing the bell and thus arousing Mrs. Sherman's curiosity. This precaution, indeed, was exercised last night, when news of Sherman's sickness was received in Washington, except that one of the family servants instead of a policeman acted as sentinei. Last Night Secretary Hay sent a per-sonal representative to the Washington office of the Associated Press with a

office of the Associated Fress with a request that the same sources from which he had information of the death of John Sherman should make proper explanation of Hay's action in issuing his official announcement

SANTIAGO SURPRISED.

Incomprehensible How the Report [ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SANTIAGO DE CUBA, March 21, 7 b.m.—[By Key West Cable.] There is no truth in the statements published in the United States and cabled back here, representing that John Sherman It is incomprehensible how these reports originated. The American Line steamer Paris, Capt. Frederick Watkins, arrived here this evening before dark, and it was at once reported that Mr. Sherman was not only alive, but better, resting easily and expected to recover. He will be transferred, if all goes favorable, to the United States cruiser Chicago Thursday. The cruiser is now coaling at Kingston, Jamaica. TRANSFER ON FRIDAY.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] WASHINGTON, March 21.-Secretary Long received word today from Capt. Cooper of the cruiser Chicago saying that his vessel had met the Paris, on which ex-Secretary Sherman is a passenger, off Kingstown, Jamaica. The Chicago was dispatched by the Navy Department to Kingstown to bring Mr. Sherman to the United States immediately, as the Paris was not expected to return with her ex-cursionists for some time. The Chicago, however, did not reach

Kingston in time, but upon meeting the Paris, made arrangements to take Mr. Sherman off the latter vessel on Friday, the change to be made at Caimanera, a few miles east of Santiago

Rejoicings Among the Members of the Sherman Family.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, March 21.-Seldom has official Washington been more completely stirred by conflicting emotions than it was today by the an-nouncement first of the death of Hon. John Sherman, and then by the contradiction of the report which came a few hours later, the one giving a relief which was as marked as was the sorwhich was as marked as was the sorrow produced by the other.

The first report which came from New York was received at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and was circulated in the departments just before they closed for the day. The announcement seemed to follow naturally the other cablegrams of the day stating the venerable statesman's condition had grown worse

since yesterday, ant rewas a universal expression of regret and, in many cases, of personal distress over the news. Cabinet ministers, Senators and members of the House expressed deep sorrow, speaking not only in terms of admiration and respect for the ex-Senator's public career, but dwelling with loving kindness upon his personal character.

The contradiction of the first report did not arrive until 8:30 o'clock. It came to the Associated Press in the shape of a positive statement from Santiago, made in the knowledge that the report of the Senator's death had been circulated. This dispatch was immediately given as wide circulation in the city as it was possible for it to receive at that how. Secretary Hay was placed in possession of a copy of the dispatch, as were also Mr. Sherman's family.

"A most marvelous condition of affairs," remarked the Secretary. He then proceeded to express his great relief that the first news was not confirmed.

then proceeded to express his great relief that the first news was not confirmed.

The news of the reported death of Mr. Sherman took many persons friends and others, to his home on K street. Among others who were congregated there when the reporter of the Associated Press called there were the two former private secretaries of Senator Sherman, Mr. Babcock and Mr. Vaile, as well as Miss Kate Willock, niece, and Mrs. Charles Hoyt, whose husband was a cousin of Sherman. They and others present read the dispatch stating that the ex-Senator was still alive with great joy.

The reading of the glad message had scarcely been concluded by those present, when Mrs. McCullom, the adopted daughter of Senator and Mrs. Sherman burst into the room, accompanied by the daughter of Gen. Miles. They had received the news through a telephone message from the Associated Press while at Gen. Miles's house, and had hurried over to impart it to the rest of the family.

"It has been a trying day," said Mrs. McCullom, "but all is well again."
Indeed, there were heartfelt rejoleings and thanksgivings on the part of those who had assembled at the house when they realized it was true that the invalid was better and might be restored to them.

Mrs. Sherman household who suffered

Mrs. Sherman is the only person of the Sherman household who suffered Mrs. Sherman household who suffered neither from the first announcement or rejoiced over the second. She was not informed of either. Mrs. Sherman has been quite ill from a stroke of paralysis for several months, and had not been informed of the ex-Senator's illness, for fear of its effect upon her. It was felt, when the news of his death came today, that it would have to, be broken to her, but all hesitated to make the announcement. It was utilimately decided to postpone the sadduty until tomorrow. She was thus saved the shock. Already many telegrams of condolence and personal calls of sympathy had been received at the house.

Prompt efforts were taken by the As-Prompt efforts were taken by the Associated Press to inform the prominent officials of the administration and others of the safe arrival of Mr. Sherman at Santiago, and it was with a feeling of genuine gratification and satisfaction that this news was received, supplemented by an expression of hope that Mr. Sherman would entirely recover

When the report of Mr. Sherman's death was first circulated today, an Associated Press reporter called at the Sherman residence. He was received by Mrs. McCullom, who was asked if if the report was confirmed. She said:
"Yes, I have heard from the State Department that he is dead." She added that she did not know where the State Department received this information. MAY GO TO FLORIDA.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Rearing the harm which might result from a sudden change in the climite of the West Indies to a northern latitude, the family are considering the advisability of having Mr. Sherman taken to Tampa, Fia. for a time. After remaining there until he is well on the road to recovery, he can be brought to Washington, stopping possibly for some days at Fortress Monroe, so as to become gradually accustomed to the changed temperature. Chilton will also stand for reelection, and there are also mentioned other prominent Democrats.

GEN. WHEELER WON'T TALK.

Says His Statement to War Department Covers the Ground.

NEW YORK, March 21.—Gen. Jo-seph Wheeler, who is at present in this city, refused to discuss a further the subject of the battle statement which I sent War Department, and which the de partment has seen fit to publish, covers the whole ground of controversy. I am in too delicate a position to say anything further, even if there were anything more to say. It was at least due to the officers in my division that the statement should be made, that those officers should not be allowed to rest under a cloud of misunderstanding."

[A. P. EARLY MORNING REPORT.1 NEW YORK, March 21.—A dispatch to the Herald from Iloilo, Island of Pa-nay, says that a battalion of the Eighteenth Infantry, a platoon of the Sixth Artillery and the machine-gun battery made a reconnoissance in the direction of Mandurriao and Santa Barbara Thursday. While they were returning the insurgents attacked the outposts on right. Although fatigued from marching in the broiling sun for two hours, the entire command proceeded to the assistance of their comrades, the artillery pouring shell and shrapnel upon the insurgents who were strongly intrenched in Jarge numbers.

The advance upon Jaro was accomplished in good order. The engagement was brought on by the enemy's persistent attacks upon the outpost to Jaro bridge. Nothing could be gained by forcing the enemy further back, as it was impossible with the limited number of troops to hold the position. and died in ten minutes.

It is impossible to tell accurately the insurgent losses, as the American troops converged at a given point without traversing the ground shot over, but on the day after the battle from Jaro belfry the enemy could be seen carting away the dead. The minimum estimate of their losses is 200 killed and 300 wounded.

The evolutions were prettily executed, and the highest credit is due the battalion and company commanders. The men are chafing at being robbed of the fruits of their victory. A charge would probably have resulted in the capture of the enemy's arms and ammunition, but from the configuration of the ground and the position of our troops, it was impossible to allow an advance in the darkness. The behavior of the troops was admirable. There has been only desultory outpost shooting since this engagement.

There has been only desultory outpost shooting since this engagement. The instructions printed on the captured cases of ammunition were in German, and showed that the cartridges came from the artillery depot at Mayence. It is suspected that the ammunition and arms have been supplied to the insurgents from German and Japanese sources, and from the French colonies. The city is quiet and business is reviving.

As a creature of the Cuban military assembly, he has joined with it against Gen. Gomez. ### A FIERY TRIAL.

Newly-organized Havana Police Pu

to a Severe Test.
[A. P. EARLY MORNING REPORT.] NEW YORK, March 21 .- A dispatch o the Tribune from Havana says that the exhibitions of lawlessness which for the last two days have shocked the city's growing sense of order and se-curity, proved a fiery trial to the newly-organized Havana police. The mettle of the force was put to a test to which public opinion scarcely thought it equal, and as a result Gen. Meno cal's blue coats stand higher today in popular estimation than would have been fancied possible after the fiasso committed in attempting to suppress the anti-assembly demonstrations a week ago. It was charged then, against the policemen, that they clubbed women and children, but begged men to move on with the most scrupulous politeness. On Saturday night and yesterday, the blue coats showed they could face fire, and their losses in the San José riot from an ambuscade showed decided courage under trying circumstances.

In this street fight seven officers including the lieutenant in charge, were severely wounded. One died-yesterday, and several others are scarcely expected to recover. Four officers were slightly wounded outside the San José dance hall. Another patrolman was killed yesterday afternoon while on duty in a different section of the slums. Of the civilian participants in the disturbances of Saturday and Sunday, two are dead and about fifteen are badly wounded. Wholesale arrests have been made, and the criminal elements will be forced to realize that the approach of political freedom is not to be taken as the signal for a general contempt of public order. Undoubtedly the conditions which have delayed the disbandment of the Cuban army have contributed to encourage the outbreaks of the last two days. With a body of men in the vicinity of the capital licensed to carry arms, and yet in a measure unrestrained by discipline, the task of the police in dealing with the refractory classes of society has been doubled and it has been found extremely difficult to repress the habit of carrying weapons concealed or unconcealed. It is believed that the attack on the police was inspired by certain notorious criminals, known as nanigos, who have recently been repatriated from Spanish prisons; but whatever the cause, the assault is accepted here as showing the need of a prompt curtailment of the privilege of carrying arms, and the enforcement by some examples of the Prado and its environs are no longer alive with the disfiguring activities of a military camp.

May Cut Open the Wound-Party of Mugwumpery May Add to the Gayety of Next Presidential Campaign.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] WASHINGTON, March 21.-[Exclu Washington are deeply interested in the rumpus between the two factions in the Democratic party over the dinners in New York. Col. Bryan's letter refusing to attend Dick Croker's $10 dinner, published today, it was agreed upon all sides, throws the row between the gold and silver Democrats wide open again, and almost certainly will result in there being two Democratic tickets in the field in 1900, as there were in 1896.

When Croker first thought out his dinner for Jefferson's birthday, it was with the intention to have it accomplish something toward healing the bringing all the factions, and the lead-ing men in all factions together at the feast. Here in Washington, the Chicago platform Democrats differ about the wisdom of Bryan's move at this early stage of the proceedings. Some Bryan-ites believe their leader blundered seriously in creating an open rupture at this time. Now they say all hope of cooperation between Gold and Silver Democrats in 1900 is gone, whereas, had Bryan managed the matter with more diplomacy, it would have been possible to get some of these big Gold Democrats back into the Bryanite fold be 1900, when their check books will be badly needed for campaign

The Times correspondent was in New York yesterday, and while there he heard some talk about the forma-tion of a new political party for the next presidential campaign. This pronext presidential campaign. This proposed new party is a party of "Mugwumps," and if formed will include some of the old Democrats and some New England Republicans, like Senator Hoar, who shy at expansion, but who cannot vote with the Democrats on flat money. Reports about this party created great amusement in New York, for a party of mugwumpery would be a most delightful addition to the gayety of the campaign.

Chinese Minister Will Serve Madrid as at Washington. [ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The Chinese Minister, Mr. Wu, is about to eave for Spain to present his credenleave for Spain to present his credentials as Minister to that country in addition to retaining his position here. The appointment was made some time ago, but owing to the war with Spain it would have been anomalous for the Minister to serve at the capitals of both belligerent countries. He therefore established a secretary at Madrid as charge d'affaires, and now that the war is closed, goes in person to present his credentials to the Queen Regent. China has usually combined the mission at Wasnington and Madrid, as a Minister here could look after the many Chinese in Cuba, while it was a colony of Spain. There is also a 1stge Chinese population in the Philippines. At present, however, the Minister's trip has no political significance. Spain has not shared in the European movement on Chinese tyritory. Wu will be accompanied by a number of officials, but Mme. Yu will remain here. The Minister called at the State Department today and made known his plans for a trip to Spain. He has received no late reports on the movements of European powers on China. ials as Minister to that country in

SIRDAR'S DOINGS.

Destroyed the Tomb of the Mahdi

at Omdurman. [ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] LONDON, March 21.—[By Atlantic Cable.] A dispatch to Lord Cromer, British diplomatic agent in Egypt, embodying the reply of the Sirdar, General Lord Kitchener of Khartoum to questions regarding the alleged mu-tilation and useless slaughter of der-vishes in the battle of Omdurman, has been laid before Parliament. The Sirdar says that the only wounded der-vishes killed by his troops were those who feigned death in order to obtain opportunities for killing the Anglo-

Egyptians.

"Whatever was done," he continues,
"was done with all possible considerations of humanity."

The Sirdar justified the destruction of the tomb of the Mahdi and the disposal of the prophet's remains on the ground that if the mausoleum had been left intact and unprofaned it would have become the center of fanatical pilgrimages, causing endless trouble. He says he himself ordered the demolition. Lord Cromer Indorses the statements of Gen. Kitchener.

AGAINST THE STOCKMEN. The Feeding in Transit Rate to Be Abolished. [ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

OMAHA, March 21.—The western roads have definitely decided to abol-sh the feeding-in-transit rates which have been granted to stockmen for the past several years. The date has not been definitely decided, though it will probably be May 20. The Kan-sas roads cannot change the rate much sooner than that, as the State law requires a sixty-days' nofice of changes. It is the expressed opinion that all roads will make the change at the same date, to avoid confusion. The stockmen in the western range country have made a vigorous, but ineffectual fight to retain the rate, as it has been of immense benefit to them. The reason given by the railroads is that the privilege has been abused by stockmen selling the cattle and bills of lading after they had been unloaded and placed in the feed yards and also that the corn consumer deprives the roads sooner than that, as the State law re the corn consumer deprives the roads of just that much freight. 4

TOWARD REORGANIZATION. Philadelphia Division of the B. and O. Road Ordered Sold.

BALTIMORE, (Md.,) March 21.— Federal Judges Goff and Morris filed a decree this afternoon foreclosing the mortgage of 1863 on the Baltimore and Philadelphia Railroad, which is the Philadelphia division of the Baltim and Ohio Rallroad, and ordering that the same be sold. Under the state-ment filed it is shown that the principal of the bonds, including those of 1883 and later issues, is $11,679,600, and the total indebtedness is $12,834,494.44, the difference representing the interest which was defaulted upon.

Special Masters A. S. Dunham and Arthur W. Spencer, who have charge of the sale of other Baltimore and Ohio properties, are also appointed to sell the Philadelphia division. No date is set for the sale. The foreclosure is one of the many steps preliminary to the reorganization of the bill and company. cipal of the bonds, including those

PIPE-LINE STORIES.

PESTIMONY ABOUT ATTEMPTED BLACKMAIL OF THE OIL TRUST.

Buckeye Company Resumed at New York-Rice and His Offer to

NEW YORK, March 21.—The hearing in the case of the State of Ohio ex rel. F. S. Monnett, Attorney-General against the Buckeye Pipe Line Com ting as special commissioner. Atty.-Gen. Monnett conducted his side of the case. Messrs. Elliott and Kline appeared for the company. It was expected that the State of Ohio would present representatives of three or four important oil refineries of Obio to testify to alleged arbitrary methods of the pipe line. Before the case opened, Attorney Monnett announced that he had been unable to secure these witnesses, and after a brief reëxamination of George R. Rice, he that he had been unable to secure these witnesses, and after a brief reëxamination of George R. Rice, he would chose his case for the time being. Monnett explained that he was informed that the courts could combel the attendance of the witnesses, but they did not punish them if they refused to testify.

The proceedings against the pipeline company are to secure an annulment of its charter on the ground that the company has violated the antitrust law of Ohio, and that in defiance of the courts, it is still a member of the Standard Oil Trust. The purpose of calling Rice today was to allow him to testify in contradiction to the statement made by John D. Archbald that he had attempted to blackmail the Standard Oil Company by demanding $500,000 for his properties, which were worth about $25,000.

Rice, replying to the Attorney-General's invitation that he make a statement, read from a lengthy manuscrip. "It is true," he said, "that in 1888, on their solicitation. I did submit a proposition to sell all of my oil properties, not only my refinery, but production as well, for the sum stated."

Rice quoted from the letters of Arcbbald a letter published to show that the Standard Oil Company had his proposition under consideration. The Standard Company, Rice said, by its control of the railroads, has raised the freights so that it was impossible for him to carry on his business. "In 1886," he said, "the Baltimore and Ohio Southern connections raised the freight on me from 50 to 162 per cent. and none on the Standard Oil Trust, which closed up fourteen of my agencies out of twenty-four in five months, and shut me out of over half the towns in which I was doing business."

Rice gave the date of the occurrences, of my agencies out of twenty-four in five months, and shut me out of over half the towns in which I was doing business."

Replying to a question by Elliott, Rice gave the date of the occurrences, of which he was complaining of early in 1881 and 1882. He adimtted that the Buckeye Pipe Line Company was not organized until 1885. In concluding his statement, Mr. Rice said he could prove that the Standard Oil Company has secretly and criminally blackmailed the railroads of this city of millions of dollars on rebate of freight. When he had finished counsel for the pipe line company asked him if the prepared statement he had read from did not contain the same testimony he had given in Columbus. Rice said that in substance it was the same. He said he awas testifying in the present proceedings because he wanted an opportunity for contradiction of the "false and malicious statement made by John D. Archbald."

"Its it not a fact?" asked Mr. Kline, "that in 1890 you sent to the Standard Oil Company through Mr. Orvis an offer to accept $500,000 for all your oil properties, agreeing if the offer was accepted to abate litigation."

"Yes, I guess I did."

Rice's testimony, to the same effect as given at the hearing in Columbus, was read to him and he said it was corsect. Replying to Kline, Rice said that in 1879, he offered to sell his refinery to ex-Senator Campbell for $20,000. That offer did not include any of his oil properties. When he offered to sell his property later it included 200 acres of oil and, a production of 200 barrels of oil a day, and a quantity of expensive machinery.

Monnett asked counsel if they objected to producing officers of the pipe line company to testify, and Kline replied that he had nothing to say on that subject. The Attorney-General, he said had power to compel them to testify in this State he had not appealed to the courts. With that statement Monnett declared the proceedings closed for the time being. He will leave for Ohio today. When the original complaint was served on the defendant company the interrogatories were attached to it. The company entered a demurrer to the interrogatories. If the court should decide that the questions must be answered, no further hearing will be necessary. Should the courts sustain the demurrer, the officers of the company will be summoned to testify in order that their refusal may show in the minutes.

AMERICA'S PET JOCKEY RIDING IN OLD ENGLAND

THE LINCOLSHIRE HANDICAP.

GEN. PEACE WON WITH KNIGHT OF THE THISTLE SECOND.

Racing on a Sloppy Tract at Oak land-"Kid" Parker Knocks Out Jack Carrig at Denver-Other

YAMOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] LONDON, March 21.—[By Atlantic Cable.] At the Lincoln spring meeting, of which this was the second day's racing, the Sudbrook plate was won by Lady Paget. Swirl, with Tod Sloan in the saddle, was unplaced. There were nineteen horses in this event, and the betting was 5 to 1 against Swirl.

The Lincolnshire handicap was won by Gen. Peace, owned by Capt. Fe-wicke. Lord William Beresfords sixyear-old Knight of the Thistle, carry-ing 116 pounds, with Tod Sloan up, was second, and H. V. Long's three-year-old colt Lord Edward II was third.

Gen. Peace is a brown colt by Gallinule out of Moira, 5 years old, and carried 101 pounds. The conditions of the race were as follows:

The Lincolnshire handicap of 100 sovereigns, added to a sweepstakes of 15 sovereigns each, 10 forfeit, for three-year-olds and upward, the winner of any handicap after the weights are published (January 26, at noon,) to carry five pounds of two or one value 200 sovereigns, seven pounds extra; the second to receive 100 sovereigns, and the third 50 sovereigns, out of the stakes; entrance 5 sovereigns, the only forfeit if declared to Messrs. Weatherby & Sons by Tuesday, January 31, the straight mile (66 subs, 18 of whom declared forfeit,) closed January 3, 1899.

There was a tiresome delay at the post and a number of breakaways. G. M. Inglee's Court Ball overpowered his jockey and ran the entire course. A good start was finally effected and M. Rivers's Little Eva showed to the front, followed by Lord Beresford's Knight of the Thistle, Gen, Peace and Clipsione. After the quarter post had been passed, Clipstone was in trouble, and at the half-way mark Little Eva gave place to Gen. Peace. Below the distance Knight of the Thistle challenged the leader, but never looked like getting on even terms, and Gen, Peace won In a canter.

Sloan may have been said to have sovereigns, added to a sweepstakes of 15 sovereigns each, 10 forfeit, for three-a canter.

Sloan may have been said to have been mobbed by his admirers on making his first appearance here this season with the racing colors in the race for the Sudbrook plate and there was a rush to put money on Swirl, simply because the American jockey was riding that horse. Sloan showed all his old resource in getting first away, and he made a bold bid for victory at the finish, but Swirl was not good enough and was unplaced.

On the eastern side of the island, embedded in the sand, an anchor was seen, and what appeared to be the wreck of a lower mast was higher on the beach. When the flagstaff was in place, the sailors were formed in two ranks facing seaward, and having called all to witness that the island was not in the possession of any other nation, Commander Taussig ordered the American flag to be raised by Ensign Wettengill. On reaching the truck, the flag was saluted by twenty guns from the Bennington. After the salute, the flag was nalled to the masthead and a brass plate with the following inscription was screwed to the base of the flagstaff:

"United States of America.

Commander Taussig describes the island thus:

"The island was more heavily wooded than was shown on the chart. Patches of grass were growing on the lagoon side of the western inlet, and the shrubbery afforded nesting places for the many sea fowl. Fish were plentiful in the lagoon, and there was a swift current running out of the southern passage. The lagoon on the southern passage. The lagoon on the southern passage. The lagoon on the southern was a long strip of deepblue water, extending nearly its entire length. Outside of the lagoon many sharks were seen crowding around our boats and around the ships.

"Had I been able to have found an anchorage. I would have remained in this vicinity for two or three days. to reconnoiter more thoroughly the island and take astronomical and magnetic observations, but, having carried out the orders of the department in regard to the island and deeming it necessary to save as much coal as possible, I took my departure at 5:35 p.m. for Guam. During the afternoon the Navigator, Ensign Campbell, was endeavoring to find a possible anchorage on some light patches of water to the westward of the outlet. He found thirty fathoms, coral bottom, and one patch about three hundred yards from the reef wall, but it looked too close to the breakers to be used. The white bottom could be seen in white patchings where soundings of twenty fathors were obtained close in to the breakers."

PRYING INTO ALASKA

THE THIRD MILITARY EXPEDITION BOUND FOR FROZEN NORTH.

apt. Abercrombie Discusses Some of the Topographical Features Two Routes Only to Be Considered in Regard to Shortness-Ag-

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, March 21.-Capt. A. Abercrombie of the United States army has left Washington on his third military reconnoissance into Alaska. Capt. E. F. Gienn, who also has been directed to make military reconnois-sance into Alaska, will follow him in a few days. The first duty enjoined upon these officers is to proceed to Montana and purchase range ponies to be used as pack animals. No reindeer will a company the expeditions. The two ex-peditions named will be the best equipped of any that have thus far penetrated that colossal domain of ice and snow. In addition to better boats, there will be the advantage of the experience already gained in Alaska by the explorers themselves.

Last summer Capt. Abercrombie explored the Copper River Valley for the purpose of establishing an all-American route to the Klondike, Capt. Glenn's instructions on a previous trip were to begin his journey at Cook's Instructions on a previous trip were to begin his journey at Cook's Instruction of the most direct and practical route from tidewater to one or more crossings of the Tanana River, in the direction of the Yukon, between Forty Mile Creek and Circle City. He was also expected to discover, if possible, a passage through the Alaska Mountains south of Tanana, and especially to cover as much territory as possible between the Yukon, Tanana, Copper River and Shushitna rivers. explorers the rivers. In this Capt. Glenn and his associates

Tanana. Copper River and Shushitna rivers.

In this Capt. Glenn and his associates did not wholly succeed. In their endeavors to carry out the instructions, they passed through many trials and great suffering. Capt. Abercromble, in his report to the War Department of last summer's work, says that the map of Alaska shows only two lines of travel into that section of the interior, and both are confined to the main artery of drainage, the Yukon River.

The southern route is by trail from Skaguay, over the White Pass to the headwaters of the Yukon, which rises in a series of lakes in a flat, marshy country. Through this section the construction of a railway will be a difficult problem. At present the prospectors take a line of steamers at the lakes, passing through them into Lewis River, thence down to the junction of the Lewis and Felley rivers, where originates the Yukon. Going down the Yukon the Klondike region is entered. Dawson City is reached at a distance of about seven hundred and fifty miles from the coast. As a means of water transportation this route is available for only about four months in the year. The northern route from Seattle is entirely by water and from St. Michael, at the mouth of the Yukon, follows that stream in a northeasterly direction to Fort Yukon. Here, at the mouth of the Porcupine River, it turns and follows a southeasterly course to Dawson City.

Capt. Abercromble here remarks, with considerable emphasis, that with Skaguay at the head of the Lynn Canel, Fort Yukon at the mouth of the Porcupine and St. Michael at the mouth of the Porcupine and St. Michael at the mouth of the Porcupine and St. Michael at the mouth of the Sukon, it will be observed that this river forms the arc of a circle. Of this arc Fort Valdez, on Prince William Sound, is the axis. To put it more plainly, he says, consider the arc of the circle as a portion of the felly of a wheel of which Fort Valdez is the hub. Strange as it may appear in making this great curve the Yukon piles from the sea. Comparing the mileage sea. Comparing the mileage between St. Michael and Dawson City, which St. Michael and Dawson City, which is 1600, and that from Skaguay, the latter route is 1925 miles shorter. Comparing the distance from Skaguay to Dawson City, 575 miles, with that from Fort Valdez to Dawson City, 499 miles, it is found that the difference is 125 miles in favor of the Valdez route.

It is aparent from these figures, says Capt. Abercrombie that there are but Capt. Abercrombie that there are but two routes of communication to be considered, the Skaguay and the Valdez routes. He says, disregarding the fact that the Skaguay route passes through foreign territory and involves taxation with the usual formalities and delays, it will be found topographically that the Lynn Canal and Fort Valdez are about the same altitude, with a difference in elevation of the White Pass on the Skaguay route and the Thompson Pass, on the Valdez route, of about one thousand feet in favor of the Thompson Pass. The meteorological conditions are about the same.

As far as agricultural possibilities are concerned, Capt. Abercrombie believes that there is no comparison between the two routes. He thinks the Copper River Valley will produce all the cereals, garden truck, small fruits, etc., that will be required for the mining the two routes. He thinks the Copper River Valley will produce all the cereals, garden truck, small fruits, etc., that will be required for the mining population which may hereafter inhabit the Copper River district, Tanana and Forty-Mile districts of Alaska.

The gradient into the interior for railroad construction is practically nominal: Bridge timber, timber for railroad ties, coal and iron. Capt. Abercrombie believes, will be found in abundance. He says he did not understand that he was directed to make a preliminary report on the route for a railroad, but was simply to report about the topographical features, and as to rain, etc. Not only does he regard a railroad as possible, but he regards it as a proposition of great commercial merit. The gradients considered are confined to the Keystone Pass, starting through the coast range of mountains. Having passed this range at a point in the rear of Corbin's Pass, he says, there are three possible routes. These are up Low River, through the Keystone Pass to the headwaters of the Tasuna, thence down that river to its junction with the Copper, a distance of fortynine miles from tide water.

Second—Up the Heiden Valley to the Konsina divide, thence down the Konsina to its junction with the Copper ninety-three miles from tide water.

Third—Up the Heiden Valley and over the Thompson Pass, thence into the Copper River Valley, it is possible to proceed in any direction, the deposits of iron and coal indicating the course of the preliminary line.

Home from Washington. [ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] SEATTLE, March 21.-Gov. John

SEATTLE, March 21.—Gov. John C. Brady of Alaska arrived here today from Washington, where he has been since January looking after Alaskan legislation. Concerning the Alaska boundars, Gov. Brady said:

The Canadians will surely have a fight on their hands if they try to, move the boundaries on the Porcupine, as they have on the Stickeen and the Lynn Canal passes. Do you think that 2000 Americans, every one of them we'l armed, who have gone into a country and taken up claims on what has always been considered American territory, will let a handful of Canadian policemen move the boundary line at will? This boundary question is a serious one, and no one can tell how it is going to come out. Every member of the commission should come west and make the trip to Alaska. They should at least come west of the Rockies, for I understood there are members of that commission who have not been that far west."

commission who have not been that far west."

Regarding legislation secured for Alaska, Gov. Brady said: "We are thankful for small favors. There is some satisfaction in knowing that a man can now be legally tried for crime in Alaska. We have now a said on the liquor traffic. Free whisky would have been better than the conditions of traffic under the laws now in force. This will be a year of great development for Alaska. The military exploration parties, the coast survey and agricultural investigating committees will all do a great deal of good. The government is going to follow up the reindeer problem, and we hope to see a successful issue before the end of the year."

On the 30th of May Gerald Lapiner was abducted by a mysterious woman from in front of his parents' home, No. $435 Prairie avenue, in Chicago. A large reward was offered for the recovery of the child, and, although the Chicago police made every effort to bring the kidnappers to justice, nothing further could be learned.

About two months ago a newspaper account of the abduction and the reward offered came under the notice of F. F. Ferris and his sister, Miss Annie Ferris, neighbors of the Ingersolis Mr. and Mrs. Ferris suspected that the little boy, who has been at the residence of Mrs. Ingersoll since last June, might be the missing child, and they entered into correspondence with the Chicago police. After about two months investigation and correspondence, it was determined that the child was the missing Gerald Lapiner. Mrs. Iapiner was notified, and she arrived here this morning to identify the little one.

She was met at the station by Deputy Sheriff A. F. May, who had been in charge of the case here, and was taken in a closed carriage to the Ingersoli place, while Sheriff St. John went on ahead to prevent the escape of the abductors. Access to the house was gained through the rear door, and there they have the shering of the case here, and was taken in a closed carriage to the Ingersoll and Collins were placed under arrest, and were held for trial later in the day. He was quickly placed under arrest and taken to the Harrison-street station, where he declined to make any statement.

Shayne, who was a widower, had been in company with Mrs. Hammond a great deal since her divorce from Hammond, and there was talk of an approaching marriage between them. Mrs. Hammond secured a divorce from Hammond nearly a yeer ago on the ground of habitual drunkenness. No cause for the shooting is known unless it can be attributed to Hammond's jealousy of his divorced wife.

United States Senator Albert J. Beveridge, accompanied by his wife, started for the Philippine Islands today. He expects to be gone three months. The trip will consume about one month each way, leaving one month for stay in China and the Philippines. After having completed his trip, he may decide to return by way of the Suez Canal.

Senator Beveridge said just before leaving that he made up his mind several weeks ago to make this trip. His first intention was to go away without making his destination public, but he reached the conclusion that his going might be misunderstood, so that he decided to announce it.

"It is merely a pleasure trip," said he. "It is a good while until Congress meets, and I feel that I am in need of rest. I have always desired to take a trip of this kind, and I made up my mind to pack up and go this time. The immediate destination will be Yokohama. I shall spend some time to China, and visit the Philippines."

As Senator Beveridge is a pronounced expansionist, it is generally thought that he will not fail to avail himself of all information he can gather on his trip on subjects expected to take up much time of the next Congress.

According to the statement of friends who saw to the statement of friends who saw him yesterday afternoon he started for San Francisco last evening to lay his case before Gen. Shafter, with whom he served in the Santiago campaign, the Twenty-fourth Infantry Band having been one of the bands which inspired the troops to heroic deeds by playing 'Hot Time' in the Old Town,' and other tunes when the army was in front of Santiago. During engagements the members of the band, all of whom, except the leader, are colored, assisted in removing and caring for the wounded. After the war the band returned to Fort Douglass, and was lately transferred to the Presidio at San Francisco, where Bandmaster Schaffner expected to join them a few days hence.

at San Francisco, where Bandmaster Schaffner expected to join them a few days hence.

Schaffner's discharge seemed to take him by surprise, although the Salt Lake City papers have for several weeks made free use of his name in connection with a scandal and tragedy in that city.

It appears that Mrs. Emma Christenson died at Salt Lake, February 28, under suspicious circumstances. Her body was exhumed after burial, and on March 7 an inquest was neld which resulted in a verdict setting forth that the woman's death was due to a criminal operation. James A. Luke, Charles H. Schaffner and Mrs. J. M. Baker being mentioned as persons implicated in the crime. Luke and Mrs. Baker were arrested. Schaffner left Sait Lake for Los Angeles before any charge was made against him. A warrant for his arrest is said to have been issued, but so far as known here, no effort has been made to apprehend him. Certainly the police here have not been notified that he was wanted.

Schaffner stated yesterday that he could not conceive how his name has Schaffner stated yesterday that he could not conceive how his name has become connected with the Christenson case. He said he never knew any of the persons whose names figure in the scandal. He left Salt Lake City with his wife and three children February 16, twelve days before Mrs. Christenson's death. He came here for the benefit of his heaith, and has at all times been ready and willing to return to Utah to face his accusers. His discharge from the army, he said, was a complete surprise to him and a great injustice which he would seek to have undone.

influence of Gen. Shafter to have the cause of his discharge from the army

MUSIC AND MUSICIANS.

That W. F. Skeele's organ recitals are found to be not only interesting and enjoyable but really popular has beer evidenced for some time, and last night again, an audience that completely filled the edifice assembled in the Firs Congregational Church. The choice of numbers covered a wide range. Guil-mant, Malling, Grieg, Lemmens, Tschaikowski. Jadassohn and Wagner were all represented, and in all Mr. Skeele showed his mastery over keyboards, stops and pedals, and his sincere musicianly excellence. Lee Emerson Bassett assisted with two readings in which he displayed dramatic feeling, freedom from mannerisms or affectation, and a well modulated voice, which would, however, have better carrying power if Mr. Bassett did not drop his chin so much. The personnel of the U.S.C. Glee Club, which also assisted, seems to have changed this year, and the members have a good deal to learn. They were applicated to the echo, recalled twice, but it could not have been for the excellence of their performance. The faults are grave, but they can be remedied if realized and the effort is made. showed his mastery over keyboards faults are grave, but they can be rem-edied if realized and the effort is made.

of the south wing of the main building of the men's department. The ward is in charge of Attendants McIntosh and McIntyre, but only the first was in the ward at the time of the assault, as it was the latter's afternoon off.

While McIntosh was at one end of the right angle, he could not see what was happening in the other wing. About 1:45 o'clock he saw McDermott sitting on a bench near a grated window in a sort of stupor, as had been his custom of late. The attendant then went to the other end of the ward. On his return, five minutes later, he saw Strong standing by McDermott, and the latter had his head drawn back against a bar.

The deceased was admitted April 6, 1891, from San Francisco, although his home was in this city. His mother, lives in this city, and a sister is now in San Francisco. Strong was admitted to the asylum Christmas day from Modesto. August 3, 1898, he attempted to assault a lady in that town.

Since he has been in the asylum he has made two other assaults on patients. About two months ago he struck a patient with a mop while he was in the receiving ward. About two weeks ago he struck another patient with his fists, after he had been transferred to the ward in which McDermott was strangled. Since then Strong has had to wear wristlets attached to a waist strap.

If they do not find safety here, they expect to go on to Europe. Kang was one of the few reformers who escaped the wrath of the Dowager Empress and was able to get to Japan through one of the treaty

The property has a frontage of 120 feet on Broadway and 37½ feet on Third street, and Mr. Rindge acquires a three-fourths interest and Mfs. Haynes, wife of Dr. Haynes, the other one-fourth. Part of the consideration is in the form of realty, consisting of ninety-four lots on South Grand avenue known as the Rindge tract.

This property, in common with all Los Angeles real estate, was considered of little value twenty years ago, and was purchased by Mr. Graves in 1879 for $2250. He built a house upon the lot and occupied it as a residence until 1888, when the building was sold to Eugene Germain and removed to the corner of Tenth and Hope streets, where it still stands and is occupied by Mr. Germain.

Coroner Holland held an anquest yesterday forenoon at Garrett's on the remains of Fong Kim, the Chinese woman who died at the Receiving Hospital Monday afternoon. On Sunday the woman swallowed a quantity of oplum and was sent to the Receiving Hospital for treatment. She had recovered from the effects of the poison, but on Monday afternoon, shortly before the time when she was to have been sent home, she suddenly died. At the inquest Dr. Hagan testified that, in his opinion, opium was the predisposing cause of her death, while uraemia was the immediate cause. Had she not taken the opium she might have died at any time, as she was suffering from acute albuminuria. Her demise was simply hastened by the effect of the drug. The jury returned a verdict in accordance with the above facts.

PHOENIX, (Ariz.,) March 20.—[Regular Corvespondence.] There is almost unanimity with the press of Arizona concerning the late Legislature. The comments are interesting. Here are some sample expressions of opinion confirming the view of one of the paconfirming the view of one of the papers, that "Few of the legislators could get into heaven on the testimony of the Arizona press." The Florence Tribune very frankly observes, "Arizona has had some pretty tough Legislatures, and no mistake; but the dead-beat twentieth will go down in history as a twentieth will go down in history as a little bit the worst. It is said that certain members do not wait to be 'ap-proached,' but freely offer themselves for sale in the open market, and that for sale in the open market, and that three-fourths of them are owned, body and soul, by the corporations."

The St. John's Herald mildly considers, "We ought to be thankful the Leg-

The Prescott Pick and Drill calls it "A brass-collared The Phoenix Gazette, Editor Dunbar's inimitable style, has had much to say on the subject, some of the expressions being "Dodgers," "Traders," "Political Highbinders," "The Mule Legislature;" the last signising that Allen of Jerome, and the mining corporations had the whole aggregation in harness. The Prescott Journal-Miner calls the members "Rough Workers." The Williams News rays the session is "An unpleasant memory." The Phoenix Republican paid an especial debt to President Goldwater of the Council, and then said. "A good fumigation would not injure the Council chamber." The same excellent journal calls the councilmen "repudiators," and the Assembly "a kindergarten." The Star, referring to the fatality that attended all measures in which its editor was interested, calls ""The Slaughterbours Legisteries" Editor Dunbar's inimitable style, has the fatality that attended all measures in which its editor was interested, calls in which its editor was interested, calls it "The Slaughterhouse Legislature," and affirms that "it is difficult to do the subject justice." The Phoenix Enterprise speaks of "crooked methods," and states that "several made history that will materially shorten their political careers," "Twentieth Terriers" is suggested by the same journal as a propertitle for remembrance. Other sheets delicately refer to the "White Man's Burden" at Phoenix, and suggest the advisability of establishing in the public schools a depastment where the rising generation could be coached in correct parliamentary procedure.

The fact that 300 more pupils were enrolled at the beginning of the current term of the Phoenix schools over the number taught last year is a reason why the trustees of the Phoenix common school district are looking for additional room. The rooms are overcrowded, though extra accommodations have been provided outside the three schools buildings. It is now proposed to erect at least one more building, to be placed in the northwestern corner of the city at the corner of Grand avenue and Van Buren street. ## SUNDAY LIQUOR LAW.

EVASION OF THE ORDINANCE WAS TOO PALPABLE.

Days in the Week and Then Run as a Restaurant on the Seventh, John Whitfield Convicted.

John Whitfield, a waiter at the Riche-lied, who was tried before Justice Mor-gan on Monday on a charge of violating the Sunday-closing ordinance, His Honor having taken the case under adisement, was found guilty yesterday morning. According to the interpreta-tion of the law by the police judges, a estaurant, separated by a partition from a saloon, which is solely a res-taurant and not a saloon and restaurant combined, may serve liquor in original backages with a meal on Sun-day, even though the "meal" be no-ticeably scant, but the imagination must not be stretched far enough to convert a saloon, which runs as such six days in the week, into a restaurant on the seventh day. In rendering his decision the Sunday following."

"The evidence in this case shows that officers Fowler and Dickens entered the place in question about 6:30 o'clock on Sunday evening, March 5, 1899, and stepped into a room and sat down at a table. That the defendant came to the door end inquired what they would have. Officer Fowler stated that they would take some beer. The defendant stated to the officer, that he would have to take it in an original package. Officer Fowler said all right. The defendant then went away and returned with a quart bottle of beer and some glasses, whereupon the officer paid the defendant then left the room. The officers then and there opened the bottle, and, after pouring the contents, or a portion of the same into glasses, drank the same there. That the defendant subsequently came back and brought what he terms a meal or e lunch. That at that time the officers were just going and did go, not partaking of the flace in question is a saleon or drink place in question is a saleon or drink.

"The evidence also shows that the place in question is a saloon or drinking place, and is so used. The evidence on behalf of defendant also shows that the place in question is elso used as a place where meals are served, or a restaurant.

place where meals are served, or a restaurant.

"The defendant claims that he served a regular lunch or a regular meal to the officers at the same time.

"That the contention of the defendant is hardly true is sufficiently shown by all the testimony of the case. The lunch furnished was not a bona fide meal, but was a slim attempt on the part of the defendant to make it appear that he was furnishing a bona fide meel.

"The attempt was certainly abortive in this case, and was not a bona fide meal, or even a bona fide lunch, for who will say, or even contend for one moment, that a package of the size testified to by the officers in this case could contain bona fide meals or a bona fide lunch for two or three men?
This is the vertex subterfuse.

This is the veriest subterfuge.
"Now as to whether the place where This is the veriest subterfuge.

"Now as to whether the place where the beer was sold and drank was or was not at the time in question a barroom, saloon or drinking place, the evidence in this case, uncontradicted by the defendant, shows that six days of the week the place in question is a saloon or drinking place, and the defendant claims that it is at the same time also a restaurant. Under the defendant's theory of the case it appears that at 12 o'clock on Saturday night the said place ceases to be a saloon or drinking place and becomes at once a restaurant only, and continues to be a restaurant only until Monday morning, when it again becomes a saloon or drinking place and also a restaurant.

"The place of entrance to the saloon or drinking place and the restaurant is identically one and the same, end the room where the officers procured their beer, as well as other rooms within the limits of the place, are used indiscriminately as places for drinking, and, according to the defendant's version, also as a restaurant where meals are served.

"The saloon or drinking place cannot, by the proprietor simply stating certain rules, be changed on Saturday night at 12 o'clock to a restaurant and then again revert to its original status as a saloon by a few instructions being given by the proprietor. If such transformation could be had, by such a method, then the proprietor of any saloon or drinking place in the city could, by placing therein certain utensils for cooking purposes, call his place a saloon or restaurant according to what would best serve his purpose for the time being, and run his place wide open on every day of the week.

"To hold that the place in question is a saloon or drinking place, and such being the case, and such engals, and such being the case, and such engals as a saloon or drinking place six days of the week and on the seventh day a restaurant, would be a perversion of justice. In this case I therefore hold that the place in question as to the sale being made as alleged, I find the defendant the beer was sold and drank was or was not at the time in question a bar-of California is to maintain its prestige, and if it would succeed in the next election, a systematic plan of reorganization must be adopted and carried out with thoroughness, and with a view to the good of the party at large, rather than to the benefit of individuals. The unsavory record made at the legislative session just ended has jeoparded future success, and has rendered it possible only upon one condition-the complete reorganization of the party, with some radical changes in its plans and Reform should begin at the source of our party weakness. A complete reorganization of the Republican State Central Committee is the first step to be taken in the work of restoring to the party in California the confidence and the prestige which are essential to future success. Unless the party leaders have the full confidence of Republicans throughout the State, complete harmony will be impossible, and without harmony political success will be impossible.

The Republican party of California is handicapped, at the present time, by a number of so-called "leaders" who are not only incompetent and untrustworthy, but who, by the course which they have pursued, have forfeited whatever confidence was reposed in them at the beginning of the last State campaign-and confidence in them at that time was by no means general. The action of the chairman of the State Central Committee in actively supporting the candidacy of the unspeakable Dan Burns, and in going to Sacramento as special champion, apologist and sponsor for that political pariah and marplot, has forever branded nim as one who cannot safely be trusted in Republican councils. And there are others. For instance, such men as W. F. X. Parker, Hervey Lindley, H. Z. Osborne of the Los Angeles Dan Burns contingent, and the rest of the incompetent gang of machine politicians, are not to be trusted under any circumstances. They have fastened themselves like barnacles upon the Republican party of the State, not for the party's good, but to sap its life's blood. If such men are to continue in the party leadership, or in positions of responsibility in the party councils, the decent Republicans of the State may as well abandon all hope of success in the next campaign and allow the election to go to our political opponents by default. The defeat of Dan Burns in the late | yet securely corked, will be ruthlessly ship has demonstrated at least one chief actor in the malodorous drama thing: it has shown that the Republi-can party still has sufficient vitality to of the State "will feed fat an ancient repudiate the would-be domination of grudge." the least reputable elements in its wolfish followers get under shelter! A CONTEMPTIBLE PROCEEDING.

The action of the Board of Library Trustees in removing Mrs. Wadleigh from the position of librarian, and in appointing another person to the posiion, is, under the circumstances, a high-handed, unwarranted and impudent proceeding. Within a few days the present Board of Library Trustees will go out of office, and as a matter of common decency it should have left the matter to be determined by the succeeding board. It is understood that Mrs. Wadleigh would in any event have presented her resignation to the incoming board, to be acted upon as that body should see fit. In any event, it there was to be a change in the position of librarian, the appointment of Mrs. Wadleigh's successor belonged by right to the incoming board, not to the

The summary removal of Mrs. Wadleigh is an injustice to her, in that it gives her no opportunity for defense against the charge preferred—which, at best, is so indefinite as to give like to a strong suspicion that it was manufactured for the purpose. No person be condemned without being should afforded an opportunity for defense The action of the board tends to place a stigma upon the character and ability of the librarian. She is clearly entitled to an opportunity for a fair defense, and the board's refusal to afford her such opportunity is little short of a gross outrage, and a defiance to public opinion as well as a violation of common decency.

This whole wretched business looks very much like a petty scheme on the part of the outgoing board, which has a Democratic majority, to gain a trifling political advantage by placing a Democrat in a responsible position under the city government, which is Republican, thus forestalling the action of the incoming board, which will have a Republican majority. #### MAKING RAIN.

A public document issued by the United States Department of Agriculture is of special interest to this section just at present, notwithstanding the inch of rain with which we have been favored. It contains the report of the agent of the Department of Agriculture, who made experiments in the production of rainfall in Texas and New Mexico, about seven years ago.

The report contains some interesting historical matter regarding early theories and experiments in the line of artificial rain-making. It is shown that, as long ago as 1839, Espy, a Frenchman, suggested the building of great fires to heat the air, upon the theory that warm air, rising, would, owing to the diminished pressure, expand, and by expansion cool the vapor, causing condensation and precipitation. It was proposed in Australia, in 1884, after a three years' drought, to test Espy's theory, but the government astronomer in New South Wales State, will be called to the bar to threw a dampener upon the project—if not upon the thirsty land—by declaring that it would require the burning of 9,000,000 tons of coal daily to increase the rainfall at Sydney 66 percent., where the average humidity of the people's wrath, and seven vials

Other suggestions have been to build to erect a tall chimney over a pool of water, and build fires at the edge of the water, with draft over the water up the chimney, causing the flames to pass over the surface of the water to the chimney, and thus carry moisture into the air. There is no doubt that this will form clouds of vapor in the air; but it is not equally certain that the vapor will be condensed to rain

The fact that rainfall almost invariably follows heavy cannonading, finds strong confirmation in statistics set forth in this report. In 1871, Edward Powers published a book entitled "War and the Weather." which contained a large amount of historical data, tending to show that, even in very dry regions, battles, during which there was cannonading, have been followed by a copious fall of rain. Napoleon is said to have believed that rain usually followed heavy cannonading, and took advantage of this theory in ordering the maneuvers of his troops. It is also stated that an unusually wet season prevailed throughout France during the Franco-Prussian war. Many of our citizens who took part in the civil war can testify that in many ases a heavy cannonading was followed by a considerable fall of rain. In fact, this was so usual an occurrence as to be taken for a matter of course

The proposition advanced by Mr. Powers was to resort to heavy nonading. This, however, would have been very expensive. He estimated the cost of two experiments, exclusive of the cost of the guns, which were to be loaned by the government, at $161,-500 or a little over $80,000 each.

Still later, in 1880, Gen. Daniel Ruggles of Virginia, obtained a patent on the production of rainfall, by setting off explosives from balloons in the air. A few years after this, Senator Charles B. Farwell of Illinois took up this subject, and succeeded in obpottage. For this failure to express—in an hour of imperative need—the patriotic and loyal virtues which have adorned the name of California in the past, the people can but mourn, yet Robert G. Dyrenforth was then ap-The honor of the State pointed by Secretary Rusk as a special agent of the department, to make experiments in the production of rain-At an early stage of the consideration of the subject, Mr. Dyrenforth discarded the idea of firing explosive from balloons, the plan having been to send up high explosives and set them off in the air. He thought it would be best to make the gas employed to carry up the balloon itself the explosive, and to employ a mixture of hydrogen and oxygen, in the proportion of about two of hydrogen and one of oxygen. This mixture of gases, upon ignition, explodes with great force, and produces water, thus possibly presenting a nucleus for the aggregation of more water. The report, which covers sixty pages and is embellished with a number of photo engravings, then goes on to give in great detail, an account of the preparations made to send up ballocus, and of actual experiments conducted in the field. One of the mos interesting of these experiments that made on the San Diego ranch, near Corpus Christi, in Texas. Two-thirds of the expense of this experiment was borne by the owners of the King ranch, of 70,000 acres. The experiments were carried on all night, and included the use of twenty balloons about two tons of sulphuric acid, 500 pounds of dynamite, 250 tons of cannon powder and 500 feet of oxygen gas. Early in the evening, when the experiment began, the night was still, and there was not a cloud to be seen except one low down on the horizon Gradually, as the tremendous explo sions continued, both from balloon at an elevation of two or three thou sand feet, and from the surface of the ground, the clouds began to gather and a final discharge of explosives brought rain, which lasted for nearly an hour, during which time the rain gauge registered .47 of an inch. This rain was by no means strictly local, as reports from a dozen places in the surrounding country show that it fell even as far north as San Antonio, a distance of 115 miles. The total cost of this experiment is given at $1533.

In summing up the result of his ob servations, Mr. Dyrenforth expresse the opinion that the few experiments that have been made do not furnish sufficient data from which to form definite conclusions or evidence upor which to uphold or condemn the theories of the artificial prodution of increase of rainfall by concussion, the experiments having extended only over a period of a few months. On the whole, however, his conclusions ar favorable. They are as follows:

'First-That when a moist cloud is present, which, if undisturbed, would pass away without precipitating its moisture, the jarring of the cloud by concussions will cause the particles of concussions will cause the particles of moisture in suspension to agglomerate and fall in greater or less quantity, according to the degree of moistness of the air in and beneath the cloud. "Second—That by taking advantage of those periods which frequently occur in droughts, and in most, if not all, sections of the United States where precipitation is insufficient for vegetation, and during which atmosvegetation, and during which atmos pheric conditions favor rainfall, with out there being actual rain, precipita-tion may be caused by concussion. "Third—That under the most unfavorable conditions for precipitation conditions which need never be taken in operations to produce rain, storm conditions may be generated and rain be induced, there being, however, a wasteful extenditure of both time and material in overcoming unfavorable conditions."

The expense of the experiments undertaken by the government in Texas was certainly very reasonable, in com parison with some estimates of the cost of similar work which have been made here. The question of the production-or rather the precipitationof rain by artificial means is regarded by some people as something in the light of a joke, or a fake, but the care ful report of the government agent, above referred to, shows that such This is a is by no means the case. subject upon which the government might well afford to spend a few thou sand dollars more in experimental work. It would, doubtless, not be a difficult matter for our representatives to' induce Congress to appropriate a moderate amount for this purpose.

STATE ROADS. The suggestion made in the Legisla ture that a certain amount of the county road tax should be set apart for the construction of State highways has aroused bitter opposition from Supervisors who would prefer to handle all the road funds themselves To judge by some of the comments made on this proposition, it might be supposed that it is entirely a new thing. Such, however, is not the case According to a bulletin issued by Department of Agriculture, State taxes for road building purposes are not ne in this country, although at present comparatively little used. The bulle tin referred to shows that Connecticut and Rhode Island have such a system of State aid, on a small scale. York has just adopted a system of State aid to roads. Pennsylvania provided for State aid by the Hamilton Road Law, passed early in 1897. New Jersey adopted a system of State aid, several years ago, which has de servedly become highly popular, especially in the farming communities. Under this State aid law, the cost of building macadamized roads is divided among the State, the county, and the adjoining property-owners. advantage of this system exists in the fact that a road is never improved ex cept with the consent of those living the vicinity, who are expected to bear-a part of its cost. ing property-owner pays 10 per cent. of the cost, the State pays one-third and the county the remainder.

California is far behind many of the Eastern States in the matter of public roads. During the past few years many attempts have been made to inaugurate a complete and practical sys-tem of road improvement, but so far the result has been little beyond talk.

It is about time that we should make up our minds to join the procession of enlightened and progressive munities, which built and maintain thoroughly first-class highroads. least, we might try to place ourselves in this respect, on an equality with the Romans of twenty centuries ago. The wheelmen of California can do much to help this good work along.

ROTTEN MEAT. The investigation into the supply of meat to the army has brought out a number of unpleasant facts in regard to the manner in which meat is pared and marketed by the big packing houses of Chicago. The Chicago Tribune quotes a health commissioner of that city as having stated several years ago to a representative of the paper that the health department inspector dumped over a million and a half pounds of meat during the previous year, as being unfit for human food. yet this inspector said he did not believe that they had got a fractional part of the whole amount. Another man is quoted by a physician in the Tribune as having been a patient of the writer. He had been for a number of years employed about the stock yards of Chicago, and had conducted in the employ of others, a business in diseased cattle. He explained how he managed to evade the law, by slipping the animals out at night, and disposing of them to small butchers in the city. He said it was not a difficult matter to evade the vigilance of the inspectors. The Tribune says that although this statement was made several years ago, there is no evidence that there has been any change for the better since. This is certainly a most unpleasant condition of affairs. It is bad enough that our brave sold fers should be forced to consume rotton meat, as the evidence appears to show was undoubtedly the case, but according to this statement millions of civilians in this country may be eating meat that is unfit for food all the year round, and possibly a large amount of disease might be traced to this source One of the first duties of a govern of its people, and one of the most important measures in this connection is to prevent the sale of adulterated or diseased foods and drinks. It looks as if the Chicago packing industry might be a good subject for a thorough investigation by the authorities. The market for canned beef is hardly likely to boom with a loud report for some time to come. For all of which the packers who worked off shoddy meat on our brave soldier boys are olely to blame. Once more is the fact made plain that honesty is the best policy merely as a matter of dollars and cents, not counting the moral aspects of the thing. On receiving a pet deer from Oklahoma the other day the Governor of Missouri remarked: "All that is lacking now to make the Executive Man sion menagerie complete is a monkey a negro baby and a few dags." may not be improper to remark that some people think the simian is there

What appears strange to the contituents of members of the Legislature is the fact that while the "statesmen" are apparently sane, sensible and honest men at home, when they get bunched with their colleagues they be come quite the reverse. Just why this is so it is difficult to understand.

Seven out of ten persons among the nhabitants of Cuba can neither read nor write. One of the first duties of the United States is to teach those seven persons to read and write. In the present exigency we are morally responsible for this kind of work. A man in San Diego county hanged himself on account of the drought "and the next day it rained." It is unfortunate that the gentleman could ot have lived to learn that previous ness is not a virtue.

David B. Hill and Richard Croker seem to have become paired very much after the manner of William J. Bryan and Perry Belmont. What's the matter among the Democratic bosses, any way?

If Mr. Bryan insists on eating at the table with those only who stand on his platform, he will find his fellowbanqueters much fewer in number than they were in 1896.

Belshazzar Bryan was able to act as nis own Daniel in reading the hand, writing on the wall, but he hasn't the perspicacity to make the application.

THE LUZON CAMPAIGN.

Maj.-Gen. Otis, His Officers and

Maj.-Gen. Otis. His Officers and Commands.

[Portland Oregonian, March 14:] The Luzon campaign opened auspiciously yesterday, with the capture of Pasig by Gen. Lloyd Wheaton's brigade, which includes eight companies of Washington volunteers and seven companies of Oregon volunteers. It was a combined naval and army movement, and, of course, was successful. Of the ultimate result of this forward movement of the command of Maj.-Gen. Otis there can be no reasonable doubt. To begin with, Gen. Otis is a very fine soldier. He entered the Union army in September, 1862, and has ever since followed the profession of arms with distinction. He was a captain in the One Hundred and Fortieth New York Regiment, whose colonel was Patrick H. O'Rorke, who graduated at the head of his class in 1861, at West Point, and who lost his life saving Little Round Top, the key of Meade's position at Gettysburg. It was the One Hundred and Fortieth New York that rushed up Little Round Top, under orders from Gen. Warren, who had been Col. O'Rorke's preceptor at West Point, just a moment in advance of the Confederates, and held it until reinforcements came, and Little Round Top was made secure. Col. O'Rorke lost his life on this occasion, leading the charge. Otis was in this awful fight, and the death of his superior helped to make him colonel of the One Hundred and Fortieth New York, which O'Rorke in fifteen months had made one of the education of Col. O'Rorke made Capt. Otis a splendid soldier. O'Rorke fell dead in Otis's arms, and the One Hundred and Fortieth New York was its lieutenant-colonel, the One Hundred and Fortieth New York was its lieutenant-colonel, the One Hundred and Fortieth New York was its lieutenant-colonel, the One Hundred and Fortieth New York was its lieutenant-colonel, the One Hundred and Fortieth New York was its lieutenant-colonel, the One Hundred and Fortieth New York was its lieutenant-colonel, the One Hundred and Fortieth New York was its lieutenant-colonel, the tieth lost 133 killed and wounded in that fight. At the Wilderness, when Otts was its lieutenant-colonel, the One Hundred and Fortletb New York lost 255. Col. Ryan, another gallant Irish graduate of the military academy, was killed at Spottsylvania, and Otis succeeded to the command of this splendid regiment. From the Rapidan to the James the One Hundred and Fortleth New York lost 149 killed on the field of battle. Otis commanded the regular brigade in the Fifth Corps, and was so severely wounded at Chapel House, Va., October 1, 1884, that he was discharged in January, 1865, having been brevetted colonel and brigadier-general for gallantry at Spottsylvania and Chapel House, Va. He was appointed lieutenant-colonel of the Twentieth Infantry in 1880, in October, 1876, Lieut.-Col. Otis, with some three hundred men of the Twenty-second United States Infantry, repulsed an attack of 1000 Indians in the Yellowstone country. He was made brigadier-general in the army November, 1893, over the heads of officers of longer service. In April, 1897, he was transferred to the command of the department of the Columbia, and on May 28, 1898, he was made major-general of volunteers and military Governor of the Philippines. He was chosen for this post because of his reputation as a thorough and reliable soldier.

Money was offered to anti-railroad candidates to withdraw from the field and free their supporters: threats were used where bribes were repudiated; an army of touts and cappers dogged the footsteps of independent legislators and begged them to see Dan Burns, if only for a moment, in the privacy of his inner lair. But not a candidate wavered; and of all the men who have maintained the good names of the party and the State for so many vexing weeks, only two deserted to the corporate enemy. One was the suspected Cosper; the other was Marvin of Blue Lake. Neither man had been regarded as sincere in his opposition to the railroad, but it was thought that neither could be reckless and suicidal enough to go over to Burns at the eleventh hour, when corruption was in the air and the story of baffled bribes on every tongue. But both chose to take the risk and they must now return to their constituents with the same indelible brand on their foreheads which has set Wright and Jilson and Simpson apart like lepers in the politics of California Republicanism. . . [The Chronicle has overlooked Miller of Los Angeles, who managed to get into the Burns mudhole at the last moment.—Ed. Times.]

As to the failure to elect e Senator, viewed in its broader political aspects, we see no reason to recast the opinion we have all along expressed that no harm can come of it during the two years in which the vacancy will presumably exist. A Senator like Ulysses S. Grant would have been advantageous, but better no Senator at all than one like Burns. Carrying the tremendous load of his offensive personality and of his corporate backers how could Republicanism go into the canvass of 1900 with any confidence of success? Because of Burns and the railroad, defeat would stare it out of countenance and that, for all any one knows, might cost the party a President. As matters stand the Republican party can carry California next year hands down, Presidential electors, Legislature and all. In the mean time, the State has a Senator who will look out for its interests until the people can find the opportunity to give him a Republicon colleague to their taste; and the national party with a Senatorial majority of at least nineteen, will easily get along for a single session without the aid of California's full quota of membership in the mia's full quota of membership in the upper house.

The Republican Victory.

[San Francisco Call:] The closing scenes in the Legislature were revolting to every citizen who respects his State and loves his country. The feeling of disgust, however, is limited to the legislators who cooperated with the railroad in its efforts, helped by the Examiner, to elect Dan Burns and to destroy the prestige of the Republican party in this State, so as to insure Democratic success in 1900. These men exhibited the audacity and the recklessness of detected criminals of the violent type. One of the Senators, in the extremity of his passion because the majority of his Republican associates respected themselves and their party, literally *creamed that his candidate was "the Republican of Republicans," and compared his defeat to the assassination of Caesar. The intellectual difference between Burns and Caesar is about as wide as the chasm of ages between the two incidents which were thus ridiculously compared, but there was one point of analogy, namely, that Brutus killed Caesar for inflicting the last destructive blow on republican Rome. Another Senator, who had not received the disgraceful notoriety to which he considered himself entitled, bawled out, "I am for the Southern Pacific, and I don't care who knows it."

In the exuberance of their disappointment a number of the supporters of Burns almost tumbled over each other and frothed at the mouth as they dictated their own political epitaphs. Senator Davis, however, whose poise and whose courage in standing up for political integrity were superb, on behalf of himself and his fellows, who defeated Dan Burns, the railroad and the Examiner, expressed the actual conclusion of the whole matter in these telling words: "We will go home to our people with the clear conscience of men who have done our duty. We will go home to our people with the clear conscience of men who have done our futy. We will go home to our people with the clear conscience of men who have done our duty. We will g The Republican Victory.

he, then I tell you you are mistaken, and we have saved the party from disgrace."

The Examiner of yesterday conspicuously displayed its intimate relations with the discomfited conspirators. It published an exclusive communication from Dan Burns, in which that extinguished politician in effect assigned his own rejection as the reason for the failure to elect a Federal Senator. In a capitalized editorial, consisting mainly of congenial epithets, that truculent journal speaks of the "disgrace" of the Legislature "as the opportunity of the Democracy." But fortunately for the Republican party, while thirty members committed political suicide the Legislature was not disgraced, and the opportunity coveted by the railroad and the Examiner has lapsed. The Call has a little natural pride in having taken a conspicuous part in radeeming the pledges and in vindicating the integrity of the Republican party in unholding the honor of the State. The railroad was beaten and its falsehood rebuked. The Examiner was beaten and branded as a traitor to every sound principle it has avowed. Dan Burns was killed and his political corpse prepared for interment. It is true that the life of the Legislature was prolonged until after the church organs began their solemn appeals on the first day of the week, and that until the gavels fell the mirror of hope was still dimmed by the breath of corruption. But the obsequies of the joint convention were final, and when, after their completion, the midnight belis of Saturday tolled they inaugurated a new day, in which the citizens of this great State were enabled to welcome the rising sun with the enthusiasm of the Aztecs. When, as the adjournment was announced, the last vestige of uncleanness vanished from the legislative halls the gathered congregations of California may well have thanked God for relief and the Lenten season has been enlivened by a sentiment of exultation.

mountains of Kern county, where he has been for several years.

Williams, in his life of half a century on the Mojave desert and in the foothills, has noted that the jack rabbit is something of a weather prophet himself. "Last fall," he says, "we had jack rabbits in abundance on the desert. They have often been so plentiful that two could be killed at one shot. Now I venture to say that not one could be found in one week's travel in my neighborhood. They are all gone somewhere, and they all disappeared together.

"The driest year California ever knew was 1863. That year the cattlemen lost millions of stock. The government ditch, which was started through the Dominguez rancho, was filled up with dead cattle that came too late to drink. When the winds were favorable the odor of dead cattle outside the city was unpleasant in Los Angeles, "In the fall of—the year before, two "In the fall of the year before, two companies of us were ordered from Wilmington to Yuma to escort immigrants into this city. On the way over we were overtaken by thousands of jack rabbits that passed us on the desert and disappeared about sixty miles from the Colorado River. I tried for years to find by inquiry where those rabbits went, but I never learned. They go away from the dry land every year when a dry season is approaching."

Williams visited Los Angeles from Mojave in 1869, paying $100 for carriage expenses for himself and wife. "That year," he says, "about 2000 people died in this city of smallpox. They were carried out of the hotels every day and nobody thought much of it. I stopped at the La Fayette, kept by Henry Dockweller. My doctor told me to wear a pad saturated with camphor and asafoetida as a preventive of smallpox. I had a new pair of $14 trousers, and the pad made my clothes smell so that my wife hung them outside. In the morning my trousers were gone, as were the keys to my trunk which had been in a pocket. All my money and spare clothes were in the trunk, so I had to wait in bed till my wife went out and borrowed $10 to buy me a new pair of twousers."

Williams brings to town several fine specimens of gold quartz from Gold Mountain, where, he says, William Mead's new ten-stamp mill is working.

At a meeting of the Liquor Dealers' Association yesterday afternoon the new license ordinance adopted by the City Council Monday was carefully examined and discussed at length. Some of the members expressed disappointment that their request for the repeal of the closing ordinances had not been granted, but there were only one or two of this class. The large majority of the members expressed great satisfaction at the action of the Council, and it was declared to be the purpose of the organization not only to obey the new laws but to assist in the prosecution of violators of it. Resolutions were adopted declaring the purpose of the association to uphold the law, thanking the Council for its courtesy and the newspapers for fair presentation of the license question.

PRIVATE HOXES IN SALOONS NOT TO BE TOLERATED.

Police Commissioners Will Enforce License Laws—Three New Cases of Smallpox—Former City As-sessor Charged With Collusion With a Taxpayer.

Although the new licenses regulat ing the retail-liquor business of the city, which were adopted by the City Council Monday, have not yet gone into effect, the Board of Police Commissioners at its regular meeting yes-terday morning took its first step toward the enforcement of those laws.

A number of saloon men had been cited to appear to explain certain reports that had been made about them by the police, but anticipating a change under the new ordinances, the commission dismissed each of the cases with the customary lecture, and in this connection told the erring saregard the law or fail to comply with provisions of the new ordinances. The case against the Mechanics Sa loon, at No. 213 East First street loon, at No. 213 East First stree came up on a report signed by a sco or more police officers, including a the sergeants and several of the d tectives. By this report the commi-sion was informed that the place question was one of the worst dives mitted there: that it was a resort for prostitutes and thieves; in short, they gave the saloon about as bad a reputation as could have been given it. Henry Gerke was called upon to explain what manner of place he conducted. He was very profuse in his explanations, but did not explain much. He declared that since it had come to his knowledge that the Police Commission did not wish women to be loafing in saloons he had keptall disreputable women out. He was made to explain the several entrances to his place, and when he mentioned all disreputable women out. He was made to explain the several entrances to his place, and when he mentioned two rear entrances and one from the Russ House, Mayor Eaton declared that the commission might as well begin preparing for the enforcement of the new law by ordering all the entrances to this place closed except the one leading from the street. Gerke was given to understand that his place would be watched, and that unless he complied strictly with the law his license would be revoked.

A week ago Patrolman Fowler reported the difficulty that would be experienced in securing convictions of cases of violations of Sunday closing, owing to a peculiar decision of one of the courts. On this report the proprietor of the Palm Garden Saloon opposite the postoffice was again cited to appear. The commissioners also told him that the doors between his saloon and restaurant must be securely closed by the time the new law went into effect. The Mayor pointed out that the new regulations gave the commissioners authority to dictate what the internal arrangements of saloons should be, and they deemed it advisable to divorce the restaurant from the saloon wherever that was possible.

from the saleon wherever that was possible.

"It is the purpose of this commission," said the Mayor, "to put a stop to this back-door and back-room evil in the saleons. It is true that we may not be able to keep women out of saleons if they want to go up to the bar and take a drink, but we can and will make it impossible for them to lounge around back rooms, for if our present plans are carried out there will be no such rooms for them, and we intend to enforce such a regulation as soon as possible."

The case against the Palm Garden Saleon was dismissed with the usual warning, the proprietor promising to make such changes in his place as the commissioners ordered.

Louis Reese, who owns the saleon at Seventh and Main streets, appeared because his barkeeper had failed to promptly admit Patrolman Michael Holleran on Sunday, the 12th inst. Reese knew nothing about it, and as no law had been violated, the case was dismissed.

Patrolman Fowler and other officers

Reese knew nothing about it, and as no law had been violated, the case was dismissed.

Patrolman Fowler and other officers presented a report charging E. Castelano with having violated the Sunday-closing ordinance law last Sunday, and he was cited to appear at the next meeting of the board to show cause why his license should not be revoked. Leon Bernard was granted a transfer of his license from No. 120 Commercial street to a point opposite the plant of the Los Angeles Brewing Company. Edward Massey applied for a license for a saloon at No. 243 East First street, the site of the saloon the license of which was revoked at the last meeting of the board. The application was referred to the Chief. Similar action was taken on the application of Charles Keller for a transfer to himself of the license of J. E. Edwards at No. 500 East First street.

A. W. Fisher filed a written complaint against Patrolman Shand, whom he accused of repudiating a contract for the purchase of a piano, declaring that he had similarly treated two other music houses. Chief Glass said there were two sides to the story, and the matter was referred to him to secure the other side of it and present it before the board.

PAWN BROKER REPORTS.

PAWN BROKER REPORTS. In all the large cities of the country the pawn brokers are required to furnish daily reports of their business to the police department, and the reports are frequently the means of recovering stolen property. Chief Glass presented a form of report used in one of the eastern cities and recommended that the board request the Council that a similar ordinance be adopted in this city. The members of the board expressed their approval of the plan, and the recommendation will be sent to the Council. The board adjourned to participate in the regular monthly inspection of the police department. nish daily reports of their business to Several New Smallpox Cases from Exposure to Other Cases.

The daily official bulletin of the health department on the smallpox con-ditions here was less favorable yesterday than at any time within the past week. The reason for the increased number of cases for the day is easy to explain, however. The bulletin follows: CITY HEALTH DEPARTMENT, Los Angeles, March 21, 1899.

The second suspected case it that of woman at Eighth and Wall streets, and it is probable that this case, too, will today develop into varioloid, the will today develop into varioloid, the patient having been vaccinated. #### CHARGES CRIMINAL COLLUSION. Non-Resident Taxpayer Files an Un-

Non-Resident Taxpayer Files an Unusual Petition.

Mrs. Harriet Harvey of Santa Barbara has filed in the office of the City Clerk a petition to the Council for a rebate of taxes paid by her, in which she makes sensational charges with reference to the manner in which the business of the office of City Assesor was conducted during the last administration. In her petition she recites that she owns a portion of lot 8, block 7, Ord's survey, and at the time she derived the title thereto there existed thereon four mortgages for $16,000, all recorded prior to the first Monday in March, 1838, and maturing the following August. These mortgages were held by A. G. Hubbard, and under the law it was the duty of the City Assessor to assess such mortgages for taxation, and deduct the amount thereof from the property-owner's assessment. The owner served notice on the City Assessor, March 13, 1898, of the change of ownership, and of the existence of the mortgages. Subsequently she asserts that she sent an agent to the office of the Assessor to personally inquire whether the change had been made, but "notwithstanding her efforts and in willful neglect of his sworn duty," says the petition, "the City Assessor, through changing the name and form of assessment from the previous year, did willfully fail and refluse to assess said mortgages to said

A. G. Hubbard, or to make the proper deduction from your petitioner's assessment," in consequence of which she was compelled to pay the mortgages in full at maturity and the full taxes on her property besides, causing a loss of $200 to her, "which amount," continues the petition, "the said A. G. Hubbard, by reason of the aforesaid cunning ruse and connivance of the Assessor, did improperly secure above his just due, and escape the taxes he should have paid." She therefore requests the Council to compel the payment of taxes on the $16,000 received by Hubbard, and upon that payment, that her $200 be refunded to her.
She further represents in the petition "that she has strong evidence pointing to criminal collusion and connivance between some one acting in the interest of said A. G. Hubbard and the said City Assessor to escape and avoid taxation, which evidence she is willing and ready to produce at any time."

Accompanying the petition is the following affidavit from the agent of the petitioner:

"Herbert Earlscliffe, being first duly sworn, says that he is a white male person above the age of 21, and temporarily residing in Santa Barbara county; that during the year 1898 this deponent, while acting as agent for Harriet Harvey, in charge of her real estate in Los Angeles, discovered evidence of, and verily believes that criminal collusion was entered into and existed between some unknown person acting in the interests of one A. G. Hubbard of Redlands, Cal., and the City Assessor of the city of Los Angeles, by means of which criminal collusion said City Assessor, to the neglect of his sworn duty, did willfully omit and neglect to assess for taxation for certain mortgages to and held by A. G. Hubbard, aggregating $16,000, on the premises known as south 40 of north 80 feet of lot 8, block 7, Ords survey, in Los Angeles, which mortgages were duly recorded prior to the first Monday in March, 189, in book 518, page 1: book 518, page 190; book 514, page 273; book 574, page 64, of mortgages, respectively, and were not paid or released until September, 1898. And this deponent further says that by reason of such criminal collusion and said willful neglect of the said City Assessor to assess said mortgages the said A. G. Hubbard was enabled to and did escape and avoid the payment of the proper city taxes thereon for the year 1898. And this deponent further says, upon information and belief, that said A. G. Hubbard was aware of the facts of this matter; that he has refused to make restitution and that on January 14, 1899, one E. H. Spoor, the authorized agent of said Hubbard, did in writing boast of his intention to and ability to escape said taxation. And this deponent further states upon information and belief that the aforesaid 'tax-dodging' is a part of an organized plan of said A. G. Hubbard to systematically defraud his mortgagors by entering into collusion with the Assessor and take advantage of the law technically assess petitioner:

IAT THE COURT HOUSE, NEW SALARY BILL.

RUMOR THAT GOV. GAGE IN-TENDS TO VETO IT.

The Introductory and Defining Paragraph Being Omitted, it is Claimed That the Bill is Un-constitutional—Authorities Telegraphed North.

A rumor freely circulated around the various departments of the Courthouse yesterday afternoon, to the effect that Gov. Gage intended to veto the bill yesterday at the dead to veto the bill gov. Gov. Gage intended to veto the bill that recently passed both houses of the Legislature, and that has been commonly known as the "Salary" Bill. The monly known as the "Salary" being to amend cases. The members of the family are doing all they can themselves to maintain the quarantine that has been established there, and no spread of the disease in that neighborhood is anticipated.

Another new case reported yesterday exists at No. 922 Wall stret, also in a house that has been under quarantine, the patient being a fourteen-months' old child of, the Petry family. This baby has been vaccinated and the attack of the disease therefore is very mild.

The third case is at No. 512 East Twelfth street, Mr. Parker, the head of the family, being the patient. They do not be cut, for for some time it has been suspected that there was "a bug in the bill." What the particular saving clause was became apparent yester-

All the counties having been classi-fied by the Legislature, the County Government Act of 1897 was necessarily drawn. In in accordance with such drawn up in accordance with classification. Section 159 of the related to counties of the second

The general body of the section the went on to set forth the salaries of t several county officers, their deputies and employés. The new bill, which is now awaiting the Governor's si and which is amendatory of the and which is amendatory of the County Government Act of 1897, does not con-tain the above quoted defining para-graph and consequently, save for the section number, there is nothing in the bill itself apart from the title to show that the amendment is not applicable to any or all counties as well as to of the second class.

The new act begins at once by giving the schedule of salaries in amounts, but without stating that it is a salary schedule or for what the stated sums are to be paid. In some cases, such as deputies, the word salary is introduced, but in many others it is omitted and without the introductory paragraph the bill is alleged to be indefinite.

It is contended that for these was the introductory paragraph the bill is alleged to be indefinite.

It is contended that for these reasons the new "Salary" Bill is clearly unconstitutional, and article 4, section 24 of the State Constitution is quoted to support this view. That section provides that every act must embrace one subject, and such subject must be expressed in its title; and no law can be amended by reference to its title, but the act revised or amended must be reenacted and published at length as revised and amended.

But it has been frequently held by the Supreme Court that acts that are otherwise unconstitutional are operative to the extent of repealing the acts they were intended to repeal. If Gov. Gage should sign the "Salary" Bill, it is urged that though it might be held to be operative to the extent of repealing the section of the County Government Act of 1997, in such case it

Mothers children Starve!

F course they don't mean to. They are vexed every time they look at the "scrawny" child. Vexed at the pallor of the cheeks. Vexed at the irritability and peevishness of the little one they love. And they feed it everything which it can fancy or enjoy. What's the matter? Practically, starvation. For it is the office of food to nourish and to strengthen, and it is not the eating of food which nourishes, but the digestion and assimilation of what is eaten. Nourishment is not to be gauged by the activity of the mouth but by the activity of the stomach. There is the trouble in general, "weak stomach." The child eats enough, but the food does no good because it is not assimilated. It is not assimilated because the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition are not able to supply the proper juices, by which food is converted into nourishment. Look at the condition rationally. Is it any use to give cod liver oil or the modified nastiness of emulsions? This is only another kind of food and the stomach can't take care of this food more than the other food. Suppose your ally. Is it any use to give cod liver oil or the modified nastiness of emulsions? This is only another kind of food and the stomach can't take care of this food more than the other food. Suppose your coffee-mill clogs. Is it of any use to put more coffee into the mill? Until the obstruction is removed the addition of more coffee only increases the trouble. That's the way with the stomach. It's of no use to give it fats and special foods. First the obstructions must be removed and the organs of digestion and nutrition put into good working order. When this is done the "scrawny" child grows fat. The peevish child grows merry. The despondent child grows happy. The body is being nourished and the child is in sound health.

Just these results are brought about by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It increases the activity of the blood-making glands, cleanses the clogged digestive and nutritive system of obstructions, strengthens the stomach, and so enables Nature to convert the food into nutriment and to distribute it to blood and brain, bone and muscle.

There is no alcohol, whisky or other intoxicant, and no opium or other narcotic contained in "Golden Medical Discovery." Stimulants are very harmful to children and few medicines are without alcohol. "Golden Medical Discovery" is a strictly temperance medicine.

"My four year old daughter had suffered from indigestion and bowel trouble from birth," writes Mrs. Lizzle Aten, of Baldmount, Lackawanna County, Pa. "The treatment given her by home doctors afforded but temporary relief. Last February she was taken with severe pain in the bowels followed by violent vomiting. She experienced difficulty in passing urine, which, when cool, deposited a milky sediment. I became alarmed from her symptoms and wrote to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, of Buffalo, N. Y., receiving in reply a letter advising the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery together with a special medicine which they sent. This line of treatment I followed for about two months, at the end of which time my child was enjoying good health, and she has had no severe attack of indigestion since. I have used 'Golden Medical Discovery' and Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets for billiousness with the most favorable results."

Mrs. Ella Gardner, of Waterview, Middlesex Co.,
Va., writes: "My little daughter is enjoying splendid health. I am glad I found a doctor who could cure my child. Whenever she feels badly I give her Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and she is soon all right. She took twelve bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' eight bottles of 'Pellets,' and one bottle of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and she is well. We thank God for your medicines."

would still be unconstitutional in all other respects. And then Los Angeles county would be left without any law at all under which the salaries of county officials could be paid.

These several legal objections to the new bill were telegraphed to the Governor, and yesterday afternoon the rumor spread around that there was authority for the statement that Gov. Gage would veto the measure.

Mrs. Goyt lived in her own house at No. 141 Rose street, but a short time ago was turned out, so it was alleged, by the people who shared the house with her. It then became known that Mrs. Goyt had conveyed the house and lot to her grandson by deed for a consideration of $1, and he had put some people into the house on the understanding that they were to look out for the old lady. But Mrs. Goyt evers herself that she never did convey the house from above her own head, or if she did had no remembrance of the fact, and must have been so alling as not to know what she was doing. In any case Mrs. Goyt avers that she was turned out of her home, a little over a week ago, and took refuge with Mrs. Weiss at No. 120 South Myers street, a lady who has known her for eighteen years. Yesterday the court appointed W. Dieterle, manager of the Fidelity and Deposit Company, as guardian of Mrs. Goyt's estate. During the day the newly-appointed guardian began suit against Pearl Phillips, the grandson of Mrs. Goyt, to have the deed of conveyance made to him by his grandmother declared null and void and of no force, on the ground that at the time it was made Mrs. Goyt was incompetent to transact any

MAIL CLERK'S ESTATE.

Petition for Administration in the Estate of G. F. Kellogg.

Estate of G. F. Kellogg.

W. E. Younkman filed his petition for letters of administration yesterday in the estate of George F. Kellogg, the mail clerk who was killed last October in a railroad acident at Glamis, San Diego county.

The petitioner alleges that the deceased was not married at the time of his death, and left at issue only one child, Walter T. Kellogg, who resides at Oakland. In asking for letters the petitioner avers that he does so as a creditor of the estate, but that the minor child consents that he shall be appointed administrator. The assets of the estate are estimated to be of the value of $9100, but are all of speculative value. The most important is a claim for damages against the Southern Pacific Company, for eausing the death of the late mail clerk by the negligence of its servants, and which claim amounts to $9000, which petitioner states has not been paid.

Then there is a two-thirtieths' interest in the Enterprise mine in the Hematite district. N. M.. which interest is only partially paid for, and its value unknown. The value of a paid-up interest in a Klondike venture is also unknown, and the only absolute and undoubted claim of the estate is for a balance due from the Postoffice Department of the United States for services as mail clerk from October 1 to October 16, 1898, amounting to $45.

A SANGUINARY FIGHT.

in the Superior Court, for all assault with a deadly weapon upon one Charles Lunn, with intent to commit murder.

Deputy District Attorney Fredericks represented the State at the preliminary examination, which contained blood enough to make a melodrama of the most sanguinary type. Two complaints had been issued against Schulze, one for trying to stab a mature damsel known throughout Happy Valley as One-Eyed Annie, and the other for having carved his comrade, Lunn, with a sailor's sheath knife. Being held on the latter complaint, the other was dismissed.

It appeared that Schulze was enamored of a girl named Marguerite, who lived under the sheltering wing of One-Eyed Annie, and a few days ago, while drunk, he started out to visit her. The girl didn't want to meet the inebriated sailor, and took refuge with another well-known resident of Happy Valley named Dutch Lizzie. Rather curiously at the examination these several witnesses maintained their incognitos under the names given to them in the rictous community in which they live.

Schulze found the girl he was looking for and made her accompany him back to Annie's place, and there began to abuse her. The landlady interposed and attracted the wrath of Schulze upon herself. By this time he had drawn his knife and was breathing out threats of slaughter against both of the women, when the door opened and the sailor, Lunn, entered. The girl Marguerite appealed to him for protection, and Schulze then was about to grab her when One-Eyed Annie interposed her burly form. Schulze thereupon tried to stab the woman. The knife cut him on the hand, but he closed with Schulze, and a rough-and-tumble fight ensued. The men scratched and tore at one another, staggered through the door into the yard, and there resumed the onslaught more wigorously than before. When the officers arrived and placed Schulze under arrest he was in a pretty bad condition, but nothing compared to Lunn. The latter had received a knife gash on each cheek, a stab over the right temple, and a second stab in the men had clutched it for support, and the esthetic One-Eyed Annie stated that she had to dab blue paint over the unsightly spots to prevent the eyes of passers-by being offended.

The members of the State Board of Examiners, who have been investigat-ing the methods and facilities of the dental department of the University of Southern California, have manimously indorsed the report made by the faculty of that institution. The making of the report by the faculty was a preliminary step toward its securing a membership in the National Association of Dentat Faculties, which has among its mem-bership the faculties of nearly all of the reputable dental schools in the country.

The indorsing of the report by the

REVENGE ACHIEVED.

MRS. WADLEIGH, PUBLIC LIBRA-RIAN, DISMISSED.

Two Hours Required to Whip Weak Out the Scheme.

MAYOR'S INFLUENCE EXERTED.

VOTE RECORDED IN SPITE AT THE INTERFERENCE.

Charles D. Willard, Elected to the Vacancy, May Refuse to Accept the Place from the Old Board.

The removal of Mrs. Wadleigh, city librarian, and the appointment of her successor. C. D. Willard, were consummated yesterday, so far as lay in the power of the Board of Library Trustees.
It appears now, however, that the change has been brewing for some days, and it is said that Mr. Willard had been at work for some time to se-cure the place and had not only se-cured a pledge of his appointment from the old board, but that the new board, which will be installed within a few days, is fully cognizant of the move and is likewise pledged to sustain Mr. Willard in the place.

It was only with the greatest en-ergy, however, that some of the mem-bers of the library board were braced up to make the change. The meeting was scheduled to take place at 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, but a star-chamber session interfered with the assembly, and it was not until 2:30 that the members began to drop into the library, one at a time, to dissipate the ilorary, one at a time, to dissipate the idea of a previous conference.

But even then they were not ready for action, and for a full hour after reaching the City Hall there was a pulling and hauling in conferences of twos and threes, in which Councilman Toll took a part, and the outsiders were not taken into the secrets so generously whispered about among the select few.

erously whispered about among the select few.

The truth finally leaked out, however, that the reason for the hour's delay after assembling was the fact that Mr. Foster was inclined to fall down on the proposition of throwing Mrs. Wadleigh out of her position so unceremoniously. He was inclined to let the matter go over when he learned that it had been her intention to give her resignation to the new board. Messrs. Dockweller and Rogers would have none of this, however, and they called Mr. Foster to task for backing out when he had pledged his support to them before they demanded Mrs. Wadleigh's resignation, and at last he was braced up sufficiently to promise to second the motion for the librarian's removal at the proper time, a pledge which he subsequently carried pledge which he subsequently carried this was not intented as a threat, but the decision of the Mayor rested simply on the belief that it was his duty to protect the city from officials who were inclined to use their offices to work a manifest injustice.

This statement reached Mr. Garland at second hand, and it so angered him that he stated, when he came to vote on the question, that he had not intended to court any more notoriety in the matter and would not have placed himself on record, but for the Mayor's statement. As it was, he said that he would vote in the affirmative on the motion for removal, thus presenting his compilments to Mayor Eaton.

After the members of the board had consumed a full hour in whipping the weak-kneed members into line, they stathered at the table Mrs. Weaklets

"I have had enough of this delay," said Mr. Rogers, as though he had not been one of the leading causes of the delay. "So have I." said Mr. Dockweiler in anger. Then turning to one of the young women, he added, "Tell Mrs. Wadleigh we want to go on with our bustness."

"Under all the circumstances, com-

"Under all the circumstances, compliance would be tantamount to an admission of gross inefficiency or misconduct on my part, and not being open to a charge of either character. I would be lacking in self respect should I give it color by yielding.

"I fully recognize the importance of the administration of the library being in the full control of the trustges, who are responsible for its management, and it is my intention to place my resignation in the hands of your successors as soon as they shall effect their organization, in order that they may be entirely unhampered in filling the position in such manner as may seem to them best calculated to promote the best interests of the library.

"Regretting that I cannot, for the reasons stated, show in this instance that respect for the wishes of the board which I have always shown in the past, I am, yours very respectfully.

"HARKIET CHILD WADLEIGH.

"Librarian."

On a unanimous vote, Mr. Burbank being absent, the communication was laid on the table, and Mr. Dockweller called Mr. Rogers to the chair, while he introduced the following resolution, which was passed on the affirmative vote of the four members present:

"Resolved, that Harriet C. Wadleigh be, and she is hereby, for good cause, removed from the position of librarian of the Los Angeles public library, to which position this board at its meeting held May 21, 1897, elected her to serve during its pleasure. Of the reasons, among others, impelling this board to aforesaid action, the following are enumerated, to-wit: Inability to maintain proper discipline among the library attendants, and executive incompetency."

In voting on this resolution, Mr. Gar-

In voting on this resolution, Mr. Garland made the statement regarding his position given above, and Mr. Rogers said that he had been a warm friend and supporter of Mrs. Wadleigh, and it hurt him worse than he could tell to vote against her. He said that she was unquestionably the most capable woman in Southern California for the place, but that he voted as he did because it was now evident that a man was available for the place, and he thought a man was necessary to keep the peace between the young women in the library.

Mr. Dockweller then introduced a resolution appointing C. D. Willard librarian, and this was passed by the unanimous vote of the members of the brailan, and this was passed by the board present.

Throughout the City Hall there was the utmost feeling against the action of the board, and when Mayor Eaton of the board, and when Mayor Eaton admitted that he had asked Councilman Toll to use his influence against the removal of the librarian, he uttered the indignation which found expression in every office in the building. The Mayor, however, said that insomuch as the deed had been done in open defance of public opinion, and the library board would be in office but a few days longer under any circumstances, on mature thought he was convinced that there would be nothing to be gained by taking summary action against them.

The question of Mr. Willard's acceptance of the position was freely discussed about the City Hall yesterday, and some of his best friends declared that a strong pressure ought to be propulated to get the strong the strong the strong the product to get this to declare the second contact that a strong pressure ought to be propulated to the strong the strong the second contact the second conta

Johnson shipped on the Sadie from San Francisco in October 1895. After several runs up and down the coast the vessel put into San Pedro to discharge a cargo. Johnson was arrested for assault with a deadly weapon, while the ship was at San Pedro. His arrest grew out of a disagreement with the first mate, and later he refused to take his place on the schooner when she left the harbor. The agents of the vessel, and its officers, claim that his refusal to return after being arrested is a desertion, and that he therefore forfeits his pay.

MINES AND MINING.

THE LATE RAINS WILL INCREASE ACTIVITY IN MINING.

The Anaconda in the Big Combine. The Yellow Aster Mines-A Rich Pocket-The Corm d' Alenes-The

The late rains have helped to place ater requirements for mining purposes for this year beyond all doubt From every mining county in the State come reports of the good effects the rains will have upon mining developnent, and it is now a moral certainty that the gold output of California for 1899 will be very greatly in excess of that of last year, and as a consequence all lines of business will profit thereby.

ANACONDA IN IT. The Butte Mining World is authority is to enter the big copper combine terms having been agreed upon. Coming on it the Mining World says: virtually settles all doubts as to the completion of the greatest combine the world has ever known. Other in-terests and copper producers must now f necessity join in, and it will now be ut a short time before the American Copper Company, as the combine will be known, will absolutely control this great industry."

THE YELLOW ASTER MINES. The Yellow Aster mines, at Randsburg, Cal., are now milling 130 tons of ore a day. There is probably no ore in any mine on the coast that is more easily mined than that which the Yellow Aster Company is you taking on the coast that is more easily mined than that which the Yellow Aster Company is you taking the coast that is more easily mined than that which the Yellow Aster Company is you taking the coast that is not contained to the coast that is not coast that is n lew Aster Company is now taking out in their Trilby mine. Last week connection was made between the Trilby and Rand tunnels, water is abundant and work in the new mill, and in the mines is going ahead with satisfaction to all concerned. There are at the present time 150 men employed at the mines.

A RICH POCKET. The Mount Lily Company, while grading for a 5-stamp mill on their property in Tuolomne county uncovered last week a pocket which yielded nearly $1400 in gold. The Independent says it was discovered while digging out for the mortar block. As the site is on the edge of the creek, considerable gravel had lodged and covered up the vein, the gold from which had been worn smooth, evidently from the action of the water which at one time swept over it, and which, doubtless, washed the greater portion of it away.

The shipments were, for the most part, concentrates, so that it would be fair to assume that the mines of that section yielded in 1898 about one-fiair million tons of ore. Speaking in connection with this the Spokesman-Review says: "The veins from which this ore was taken are in many respects the most remarkable mineral-bearing fissures of the world. The ledges are sinmost remarkable mineral-bearing fis-sures of the world. The ledges are sin-gularly strong and true, and the ore chutes have extraordinary length and depth. We believe there is not an in-stance of a Coeur d'Alene ore chute failing to go down as far as it was ex-plored."

THE RICHENBAR, ARIZ. The Arizona Republican prints some interesting news about the Richenbar mine, near Bumble Bee. At present the flow of water is not very large, but for more than one-half of the year the supply is sufficient to furnish powe for the twenty stamps in operation. A other mines the stamps may be ma nipulated by means of a gasoline mo tor, which was installed recently, but it is preferred that fewer stamps be operated at periods of low water in or-der to save as much fuel as possible lessen the mining expenses. this reason there will probably not be more than ten stamps in operation before the end of the dry season. The formation at the surface of the vein was such that the property was not thought to be of any great value when it was first discovered. One shaft has en sunk 160 feet and at that depth the character of the vein is much bet the character of the vein is inden bet-ter. Although it is not large, it is rich in free milling gold and easily traced. The ore runs about $19.

ADVICE TO INVESTORS. United States Consul McCrook, writing from Dawson City, says: "Investors should be careful of mining properties offered for sale, particularly in some sections of Alaska. Of the many who came here last spring and summer, hundreds drifted down the Yukon and located at Fort Mile, Eagle City and Star City. I am informed that there are many schemers there who get up miners' meetings, elect their own recorder, jump claims already recorded, get their men to give them receipts as record papers and issue prospectuses of water rights, ell apparently in conformity with United States mining regulations. They have organized companies, their scheme being to sell their so-called water rights to the public. No one should buy anything until perfectly satisfied. There will be any number of valueless claims offered by promoters." United States Consul McCrook, writ-

GOLD-DREDGING PLANT. The Oakland Enquirer gives an account of a gold-dredging plant that The Oakland Enquirer gives an account of a gold-dredging plant that is being constructed in Oakland, Cal. It is being built for a company of Oakland and San Francisco people, and will be used in dredging the Sacramento and American rivers. The Enquirer says the company has secured the control of the West invention for the separation of fine gold from the river mud. The dredger will be fifty feet long and twenty-six feet wide. On this dredger the machinery for the separation of the gold will be eplaced. The mud from the river is first drawn up by a Baldwinsville centrifugal pump with a capacity of 1000 tons a day. It is then conveyed through a pipe to the roof of the dredger, when it passes through a sluice lined with riffles. Here the large flecks of gold will be removed. It then passes from the sluice down into the separating machine below. In this machine there are eight amalgamating plates with machine below. In this machine there are eight amalgamating plates with sixteen square feet of amalgamating surface. The mud and water passes from here to another machine. By the time that it leaves the boat it has passed over 256 square feet of silvered plate. On to these amalgamated plates the fine particles of gold will cling like iron to a magnet and by the end of a day's run it is expected that they will be coated with gold. MINING NOTES

A Spokane report says the famous Republic mine at Republic, Wash., has been bonded to a syndicate for $4,000,000. Patrick Clark, principal owner of the mine, is in the East, negotiating the matter, and it is believed that it will probably result in a sale. The region around Johannesburg, South Africa, has produced gold to the amount of $900,000,000; California has produced gold to the amount of $1,310,000,000. In the former region there are now 5325 stamps in operation, crushing about 750,000 tons of ore permonth.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

A Day of Thanksgiving,

W. R. GOODWIN. Los Angeles: Sunday was a great day in this city. The ministers voiced the sentiments of the congregations as they fervently thanked God for the rain that came within ten days after the call for prayer; for when the call was issued there was no sign of rain, and modern rainmakers were hunting up powder to compel rain. Devout thanksgiving went up from thousands of hearts because the better element had won in the fight against the worst element, and the Sabbath had been saved from and the Sadbath had been saved from desecration by the liquor power. These, who are opposed to being represented in the Senate of the United States by a race track frequenter and all-around bad man, thanked God that California had escaped such a disgrace as threat-ened it, and also thanked God that our Legislature was dead, although those who stood out for honesty and decency who stood out for honesty and decency to the last were not forgotten in the general doxology. And last, but not least, the daily papers of Los Angeles came in for a good share of gratitude for their uniform courage and vigor in standing for the homes of the city, and for their condemnation of those who had tried to folst upon the State an unworthy Senator. All in all, last Sunday in Los Angeles was a great day.

Bright Opportunities.

GEORGE S. BENHAM, Los Angeles: Two important events are crowding upon this city, which, in my humble judgment, may be employed judiciously to proclaim the greatness, the inherent strength of the southern metropolis. These events will afford a good opportunity for the lion who haunts the city to get upon the neighboring hills—suggestive of the immortal Seven at Tiper's mouth! to shake his mane and give vent to some volcano-like roars.

tal Seven at Theer's mouth: to snake his mane and give vent to some volcano-like roars.

The first of these events will be the celebration of an undertaking which is pregnant with mighty results to the angel-bowered city—the opening up of a deep harbor at San Pedro—the port of this modern Athens.

The second, and perhaps most available one, in so far as advertising is concerned, will be the meeting of the National Educational Association here in July next.

It seems to me that these events will afford the city a fine opportunity to secure much valuable advertising at small outlay. The first jubilee will be of a semi-national character, and will excite a good deal of commercial interest the country through. The second will partake of the character of a pilgrimage by the savants of the land. ond will partake of the character of apilgrimage by the savants of the land. In view of these events. I beg to suggest that the city establish a literary bureau, the object of which shall be to furnish not only concise, well-prepared articles, but also electros to eastern journals relative to the character of the harbor, the expected results of the government work, the city, its attractions, advantages and environs. Such efforts should be supplemented by requests to the papers in other. by requests to the papers in other States, to publish some of the matter,

States, to publish some of the matter, as of national interest.

The National Educational Association is a great vehicle for advertising. The teachers are keen observers, good judges, and will carry away and disseminate a great fund of valuable information. They take it into public assemblies, into the schoolrooms, in the clubs, and into the home circle. They use the information collected by them on these tours of the country for illustration in the schoolrooms.

A mighty crowd of intelligent, quickwitted, good-natured and appreciative educators invaded Denver, and 16,000 turned out at Miwaukee and Washington, where they fairly roosted on

"Dr. E. M. Chamot of the dhemical department of Cornell University states that chemical analyses of wall-paper which he has been carrying on for several months show that nearly all wallpaper sold at the present time contains arsenical poisons, some of them in surprising quantities. Dr. Chamot's investigations were prompted by several cases of arsenic poisoning which were said to have been caused by contact with paper-covered walls. One case, in W. S. Bancroft's family, at Cornell University, was caused by red wallpaper. Dr. Chamot says there is no basis for the popular belief that green wallpaper contains the most arsenic."

This is exceedingly unfair of the Cornell professor. For years fair Harvard has had a monopoly of going into hysterics over alleged cases of arsenical poisoning from wallpaper. Every little while some one in Boston suffers from an attack of malaria on account of too much sewer gas, or something equalty far removed from wallpaper, and then there goes up a cry that arsenical wallpaper is the cause of all the trouble. Twice in the past dozen years or so the Health Committee of the Massachusetts Legislature has been urged by a delegation of the Harvard faculty to defend the Bay State from the dreadful wallpaper ogre. All this was interesting for the wallpaper men.

on the local markets. Potatoes, hay and grain of all kinds are being shipped in from points outside the section. The market hinges on the laydown cost. Common river potatoes are $1.25 in San Francisco, and choice ones are so dear at points of supply in Newada that they cost $2 and upward to land here. Prices are likely to run to $2 to $2.50 during April. Potatoes being planted now will not come in until in May, and before the rain there were few planted. Hay will not be fit to feed until in July at the earliest. Grain will produce a good crop of alfalfa to the cut from the middle to the end of April, and available as feed two weeks later. New cabbage will not be plentiful for several weeks, and the eastern demand may hold prices upon this vegetable. Green peas and string beans will be benefited, and they will become plentiful from now on. The price of peas, is off already.

"Looking back over the year and its results for California there is every reason for future hopefulness. As a whole the State by no means reached its maximum of production. ### GENERAL BUSINESS TOPICS.

AMBER. The main source of the amber supply is the seacoast of the Baltic Sea. It is fossil gum, says the New York Tobacco Leaf, originally the exudation of a species of conifer now extinct. This grew in luxuriant profuextinct. This grew in luxuriant profusion hundreds of thousands of years ago on the marshy coasts of Northern Europe when the climate was much warmer than it is today. The natural history of amber is thus explained. The immense forests of amber pine underwent their downfall and decay. The resin of the wood accumulated in large quantities in bogs and ponds and in the soil of the forest. Where the coast was slowly sinking the sea by and by covered the land and the amber which had, been gradually hardening was at covered the land and the afficer water, had been gradually hardening was at last deposited at the ocean bottom. But in higher regions the pine continued to in higher regions the pine continued to flourish and so amber still continued to be washed down to the shore and deposited in the later former stratum of lignite or brown coal.

The gum became fossilized by its long burial under ground. More than 200 specimens of extinct life animal and vegetable, have been found embededd in amber specimens, including insects, reptiles, plants, leaves, shells, fruit, etc., which have been caught in the liquid gum and entombed there for all time. Some of these specimens are so curiously beautiful as to be almost priceless, and one English collector has a cabinet of them which is valued at $500,000. One piece embalms a lizard about eight inches long, a little jeweled monster, perfect in its form and coloring. Indeed, in many instances science is able, solely through this medium, to study details of animal life which perished from the earth many hundreds of thousands of years ago. There are files preserved with wings poised as if for flight, where the prismatic sheen glowing through the yellow sepulchre is as brilliant as if they were floating alive in the sunshine.

PASADENA.

CATED AT EL MONTE.

cott and Recommendations of Special Water Committee of the Council-A Red-letter Document for Pasadena-Jubilee Fund.

PASADENA, March 21.—[Regular Correspondence.] The report of Special Engineer J. B. Lippincott of Los Angeles, who has been investigating sources of water supply for Pasadena. together with the recommendations of the special committee of the City Trustees were received at the Council meeting today and constitute the most vitally important documents which have been filed in the City Hall for years. After considering carefully all possible supplies, Engineer Lippincott strongly favors utilizing the underground velus of the San cabriel, near El Monte. The committee, accordingly, in its report states that it has secured options to purchase fifty-four acrost feed San Gabriel, south of El Monte. The committee succerdingly in the report states that it has secured options to purchase fifty-four acrost feed San Gabriel, south of El Monte. The committee such a lase either or both of two traorth of El Monte. The committee such a such the proposition of the San Pasadal Water Company to sell to the city the Chapman ranch does not come within its province to accept or reject, but should be considered later. The engineer, however, sits down on this scheme hard. The committee and the engineer are in full accord as to the desirability of purchasing for the city the two present water plants, and adding their supplies to those the city may acquire. As to the mode of getting possession of these plants the committee suggests "friendly agreement if possible, if not condemantion proceedings in the courts." The engineer points out the possibility of procuring water from lands west of Burbank, but the committee has taken no steps in that direction, owing to the fact that litigation might cause more delay than the needs of the city will permit.

The above is the gist of the combined reports. The practical outcome of the city's investigations through Engineer Lippincott is that Pasadena has options today on lands sufficient to furnish a city of double herpores. The practical outcome of the city supply ample for a city of 4,000 inhabitants present population. The present supply should be doubled, in view of the city's growth. Pasadena will need 600 inches in 1900.

He says it does not seem probable that the supply at Devil's Gate (the principal source of the old companies) can be materially increased. The engineer gives the figures of the run-off in the upper Tejunga basin, which was 351 inches in 1898. Oft would cost the city 340,000 to distance of seen miles. To bring water from the Lower Tejunga the cost would be greater, about 3365,000. The engineer carefully examined the Loughery reservoir site near the Devil's Gate, but concludes that it cannot be depended upon to hold water over from years of plenty to years of drought. The engineer does not believe the supply at the Painter wells (which has been seriously considered, and on which has been seriously considered, and on which has been seriously considered, and on which the city holds an option,) would hold out, and therefore does not recommend that the city enter this field. The plan of taking water from the Raymond Hill dyke, south of the city, where there are undoubted supplies, the engineer does not approve. This water, being below the level of the city, is subject to sewer contamination. He says the city might unnel under Glenarm street and obtain 200 inches of water, but it would cut off the supplies of Alhambra, San Gabriel and other tracts, and lead to a bitter quarrel.

As 10 the proposition of the San Pasqual Water Company to furnish the city with 400 inches of water from the Chapman ranch Engineer Lippincott caustically says only 160 inches was flowing into this basin in October last, and "it would legent people that in the case of the San Gabriel River, the source which commends itself to the investigators. Engineer Lippincott says there is focused into these narrows the underground waters and run-off from 566 square miles.

"There is probably no location in Southern california where so large an amount of of the railroad and the two storm channels of the San Gabriel River. One pumping plant located a mile north of the railroad has five wells, sunk side by side, twenty-five feet apart. From these wells during the summer of 1888, there was pumped 500 inches. There are numerous other wells in this district, where from thirty to sixty inches are pumped. After crossing the track to the south the water is found to rise to the surface, and the country becomes so moist that drainage ditches exist around the fields.

to the surface, and the country becomes so moist that drainage ditches exist around the cids.

It is point this water would have to browning the commendation of 1000 feet to commend the city. The proposed pumping plant would have an elevation of 300 feet. Land can be bought here at $125 to $355 nm acre. The committee, in accordance with the recommendations of the engineer, has secured lands, or options on them, both north and south of El Monte, making assurance doubly sure. An analysis of the water shows it to be of great purity, free from ammonia, and containing lime, magnesia and sodium in small quantities. The cost of bringing this water to Pasadena is estimated by the engineer at $374(00), inclusive of the cost of the land. He advises lifting the water to a point having an elevation of about 1000 feet a quarter of a mile northeast of Sierra Madre, from which point it may be carried in a wooden stave pipe by gravity to a reseguoir to be located north of the present reservoir No. 2.

The engineer shows that the lift from the Burbank tract would be 453 feet, as against 752 from El Monte; the cost of delivery from Burbank 2.9 cents per 1000 gallons, as against 4.2 cents from El Monte. Still. Engineer Lippincott recommends the El Monte source, as it would be necessary to have a long legal fight before securing the Burbank water, which is claimed by the city of Los Angeles. The Loughery reservoir to arbitrate with the two old water companies fail on the says, "reasonable proposition, it is possible for you to obtain water at a reasonable controm either of the sources recommended."

It was voted to refer this report, together with that of the special water committee, H, G, Reyholds, Edmund Loekett and H. M. Dobbins, to the Trustees as a committee of the whole.

Southern Pacific's New Camp in Proposed Annexed Territory.

SAN PEDRO, March 21.—[Regular Correspondence.] The Southern Pacific has made a camp for about twenty-five of its men a quarter of a mile north of the old Point Firmin hotel, and the men are now quartered there. The camp is within the distinction which it is proposed to annex to the city. The efection to determine whether that territory shall be annexed has been called for April 18. The fact that the new camp was established one month previous to the election has aroused many suspicions as to the Company's intentions in the matter. At the camp there have been stationed a boarding car, a water tank car, and there have been an umber of tents set up as if they were not intended for merely transient occupation. The tents are floored and on the windward sides have been banked with earth so as to exclude the air. The men who have quarters at the camp are employed at repairing the company's wharf in the inner harbor, and the camp is nearly a mile away from the wharf.

The Southern Pacific and allied interests would undoubtedly be gainers should the proposed annexation fail to carry. The territory, the admission of which is to be voted all, contains what is estimated as belonging to the Pacific Improvement Company, an estimated area of 225 acres belonging to the Pacific Improvement Company, an estimated area of 225 acres belonging to the Pacific Improvement Company, an estimated area of 225 acres belonging to the Pacific Improvement Company, an estimated area of 25 acres belonging to the Pacific Improvement Company, an estimated area of 25 acres belonging to the Pacific Improvement Company, an estimated area of 25 acres belonging to the Pacific Improvement Company, and trackage. The city would be likely to assess the property, other city as by the Could and the fact that the county is the city would be accounty, but the sums which the city would require of them would overcome the difference by the amount stated.

There is also the matter of wharf fr

the board as soon as it has repealed the ordinance to enact another which shall be like the present one, save for the correction of the error. That will make it impracticable to have the election earlier than May 1, but it can doubtless be held very soon after than time.

On the part of the company it is denied that the new camp was established for purposes of "colonization," and the reasons more or less plausible are offered in support of the denial.
